Executive summary

In line with the Solemn Declaration on the 50th Anniversary of the Organization of African Unity/ African Union of the African Heads of State and Government, that was adopted at the meeting of the AU Assembly on 25 May 2013, and in order to substantially contribute to achieving the goals of the AU initiative on “Silencing of the Guns: Pre-requisites for realising a conflict-free Africa by the year 2020”, the “APSA Roadmap 2016-2020” is a strategic document, which builds on the achievements and challenges resulting from the implementation of the previous APSA Roadmap (2011-2013). The Roadmap is the result of an inclusive and participatory process involving different departments at the AUC and at the RECs/RMs.

The APSA Roadmap 2016-2020 provides a shared understanding of the results to be achieved by all APSA stakeholders, it articulates a shared understanding of the roles and functions each stakeholder involved in APSA is expected to play; it highlights a shared understanding of the need to increased collaboration and coordination among all stakeholders involved in APSA; and finally the roadmap is the most relevant tool to communicate APSA project plans and expected results to Member States, partners and other external actors.

With a focus on concrete activities and strategic objectives, this Roadmap aims at mapping out a way forward to enable the consolidation of gains made, and address the most pressing challenges, so as to make the African Peace and Security Architecture fully functional and operational, and in this way contribute effectively to the maintenance and preservation of peace and security in Africa.

The APSA Roadmap 2016-2020 details the AUC and RECs/RMs joint aims in five strategic priority areas: Conflict prevention (incl. early warning and preventive diplomacy), crisis/conflict management (incl. ASF and mediation), post-conflict reconstruction and peace building, strategic security issues (such as illegal flows of SALW, IEDs, WMD disarmament, counter-terrorism, illicit financial flows as well as transnational organised crime and cyber crime) and coordination and partnerships. In addition, cross-cutting issues are covered by the Roadmap.

Foreword

Fourteen years ago, the African Union (AU) started implementing the African Peace and Security Architecture (APSA) as articulated in the 2002 Protocol Relating to the Establishment of the Peace and Security Council (PSC) of the African Union. Since then, the Union has made significant progress, not only in establishing the APSA institutions and mechanisms, but also in increasingly utilizing them for the purpose of conflict prevention, management and resolution, with a view to promoting “peace, security, and stability on the continent”, as envisaged by the 2000 Constitutive Act of the AU and in line with the aspirations of the Africa’s people. This is all the more important given the nexus between peace, security and development. The APSA Roadmap 2016 – 2020 presented here manifests the continued determination to ensure further progress, and paves the way for future collaboration between the AU, the Regional Economic Communities (RECs) and Regional Mechanisms for Conflict Prevention, Management and Resolution (RMs) to effectively address security issues and contribute to a more peaceful Africa.

The Roadmap is a strategic document, which builds on the achievements and challenges resulting from the implementation of previous APSA Roadmaps. It is based on the 2008 Memorandum of Understanding on Cooperation in the area of Peace and Security signed between the AU and the RECs/RMs in 2008. The Roadmap is in line with the Solemn Declaration adopted by the Assembly of AU Heads of State and Government on the 50th Anniversary of the Organization of African Unity/African Union, held on 25 May 2013, in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. It further serves to achieve the goals of the AU’s initiative on Silencing the Guns: Pre-requisites for realising a conflict-free Africa by the year 2020, in order not to bequeath the burden of conflicts to the next generation of Africans. This Roadmap is the result of an inclusive and participatory process involving different Departments at the AU Commission (AUC) and at the RECs/RMs.

The APSA Roadmap 2016 – 2020 provides a shared understanding of the results to be achieved by all APSA stakeholders, articulates a shared understanding of the roles and functions each stakeholder involved in APSA is expected to perform, highlights a shared understanding of the need for increased collaboration and coordination among all stakeholders involved in APSA, and finally, it is the most relevant tool to communicate APSA project plans and expected results to Member States, partners and other external actors.

With a focus on concrete activities and strategic objectives, this Roadmap aims at mapping out a way forward to enable the consolidation of gains made, and address the most pressing challenges, so as to make the APSA fully operational, and in this way contribute effectively to the maintenance and preservation of peace, security and stability in Africa. The Roadmap details the joint aims of the AUC and the RECs/RMs in five strategic priority areas: Conflict prevention (including early warning and preventive diplomacy), crisis/conflict management (including the African Standby Force and mediation), post-conflict reconstruction and development and peace-building, strategic security issues (such as proliferation of small arms and light weapons, disarmament, counter-terrorism and transnational organised crime among others), and coordination and partnerships. In addition, cross-cutting issues – such as gender-mainstreaming in peace and security and climate change – are addressed by this Roadmap.

Building on the conclusions of the workshop of the AU-RECs/RMs senior officials and experts held on 19 – 21 November 2013 in Abuja, Nigeria, the 10th meeting of AU-RECs/RMs senior officials held on 20 – 21 November 2014 in Cairo, Egypt, as well as the outcome of the 8th PSC Retreat on enhancement of cooperation between the PSC and the RECs/RMs held on 14 – 16 September 2015 in Abuja, Nigeria, the AU and RECs/RMs senior officials finalised this APSA Roadmap 2016 – 2020 at their 11th meeting held on 23 – 25 November 2015 in Harare, Zimbabwe.

The APSA Roadmap 2016 – 2010 consists of an introduction, followed by a section that recalls its legal and institutional dimension and a brief review of APSA implementation and progress made so far. In the main part of the Roadmap, APSA strategic priorities and related indicators are detailed. The Roadmap then concludes with brief observations on monitoring and evaluation. A detailed results framework for the various strategic priorities is annexed to the Roadmap.

Making the APSA fully operational through implementing this Roadmap, will further contribute to the capacitation of the AU and the RECs/RMs to effectively address the scourge of conflicts and crises in the continent, and promote lasting peace, security and stability in Africa.

Introduction

At the meeting of the African Union Assembly on 25 May 2013, African Heads of State and Government (AHS) adopted a Solemn Declaration on the 50th Anniversary of the Organization of African Unity/African Union (OAU/AU). In this landmark declaration, the Assembly expressed its determination to achieve the goal of a conflict free Africa, to make peace a reality for all people and rid the continent of civil wars, civil conflicts, human rights violations, humanitarian disasters and violent conflicts, and to prevent genocide. The African leaders also pledged not to bequeath the burden of conflicts to the next generation of Africans and undertook to end all wars on the continent by 2020, a commitment that has taken practical expression in the AU initiative on “Silencing of the Guns: Pre-requisites for realising a conflict-free Africa by the year 2020”.

As a key component of Agenda 2063, “Silencing the Guns by 2020” underlines the necessity of making the continent’s mechanisms for conflict prevention, management and resolution operational at all levels – at the heart of which is a fully functional and operational African Peace and Security Architecture (APSA). Following the recommendations of the APSA Roadmap 2011-2013, priority has been given to pushing ahead with the operationalization of all pillars of APSA, including those tasked with conflict prevention, peacemaking, peacekeeping and peace support operations, national reconciliation and post-conflict reconstruction and development. These are in line with the Strategic Plan of the African Union Commission 2014-2017 (AUC), which posits that “the overall goal of achieving an integrated, prosperous and inclusive Africa at peace with itself playing a dynamic role on the continent and global arena cannot be realized if durable peace and stability is not established”. In addition, improved harmonisation, collaboration and coordination between the AU and the Regional Economic Communities (RECs) and Regional Mechanisms for Conflict Prevention, Management and Resolution (RMs) in the full operationalization of APSA remains a key strategic and operational priority.

The development and implementation of the APSA Roadmap 2016-2020 is guided by the following principles:

- The Roadmap is informed and driven by the spirit of collective security and self-reliance.
- The overarching goals and aspirations of the Roadmap are anchored in, and contribute towards achieving the objectives of “Silencing the Guns by 2020” and the first 10-Year Implementation Plan of the Union’s “Agenda 2063”.
- The Roadmap aims at strengthening ownership, consensus and synergy between the AU and the RECs/RMs.
- Sustainability is at the heart of the APSA Roadmap.
- The Roadmap is results-oriented.
- The AU maintains a leadership role in the implementation of the APSA Roadmap 2016-2020.

The “APSA Roadmap 2016-2020” is a strategic document, which builds on the achievements and challenges resulting from the implementation of the previous APSA Roadmap (2011-2013). This draft Roadmap aims at mapping out a way forward to enable the consolidation of gains made, and address the most pressing challenges, so as to make APSA fully functional and operational, and in this way contribute effectively to the maintenance and preservation of peace and security in Africa.

This Roadmap is the result of an inclusive and participatory process involving different departments at the AUC and at the RECs/RMs. It fulfils five major functions, which might be summarized as follows:

- First, it provides a shared understanding of the results to be achieved by all APSA stakeholders. The AUC and the RECs/RMs have collectively developed the roadmap and its results frameworks, and this document reflects a collective agreement on the strategic priorities and on the objectives that need to be reached during the period 2016-2020.
- Second, the roadmap articulates a shared understanding of the roles and functions each stakeholder involved in APSA is expected to play. APSA is intended to effectively deal with a wide range of issues, conflicts and crises, whose nature, intensity and geographical scale vary greatly and require specific and adapted responses. The clarification, common understanding of and the respect for the complementarity between the roles and functions of each stakeholder is crucial to the effective implementation of APSA.
- Third, the roadmap highlights a shared understanding of the need to increased collaboration and coordination among all stakeholders involved in APSA. Not only does APSA deal with a wide range of issues, but it also involves a wide range of stakeholders, of organisations with their own history, mandate, priorities and competences. Bringing all these stakeholders to work in a coordinated manner is a key condition to increase the probability that the expected results might be achieved.
- Finally, the roadmap is the most relevant tool to communicate APSA project plans and expected results to Member States, partners and other external actors. APSA is, indeed, supported by a large number of technical and financial partners. Moreover, APSA is of great interest for Member States and a multitude of actors (other continental bodies, academia, etc.). Having a single communication tool is of utmost importance for clarity and transparency purposes and guide interventions on the continent.

APSA Legal and institutional dimensions

At the heart of APSA are the 2000 Constitutive Act of the African Union and the 2002 Protocol Relating to the Establishment of the Peace and Security Council (PSC). APSA aims to outline the system (roles, instruments and procedures) by which the AU, the RECs as well as the RMs can realise their conflict prevention, management and resolution mandates. The APSA, as enshrined in the PSC Protocol, embraces an expanded and comprehensive agenda for peace and security that includes (direct and structural) conflict prevention, early warning and preventive diplomacy, peace-making and peace building, the encouragement and promotion of democratic practices as well as intervention and humanitarian action and disaster management.

Before the transition of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to the African Union, an OAU Mechanism for Conflict Prevention, Management and Resolution existed (it was established July 1993 in Cairo), to provide the Organization with instruments capable of enabling it to deal with the scourge of conflicts and to facilitate collective African action in matters of conflict management. However, the scope and gravity of the conflicts, as well as their complex nature, soon revealed the limitations of the Mechanism, which among other things, was not equipped with the means for the deployment of peace keeping operations, a responsibility left exclusively to the United Nations (UN).

The AU recognizes eight RECs, including:

- CEN-SAD – Community of Sahel-Saharan States
- COMESA – Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa
- EAC – East African Community
- ECCAS – Economic Community of Central African States
- ECOWAS – Economic Community of West African States
- IGAD – Intergovernmental Authority on Development
- SADC – Southern African Development Community
- UMA - Union du Maghreb Arabe

These RECs are also key drivers of African economic and political integration as defined in the 1991 Abuja Treaty.

The path that led to the creation of APSA is rooted in the genesis of the African Union. Concerned by the great number of conflicts that erupted in Africa and their devastating impact on African countries and key events such as the Rwanda genocide, African leaders declared their determination to deal with both inter- state and intra-state conflicts. The promotion of peace and security, therefore, became one of the key objectives of the AU as enshrined in its Constitutive Act. It was adopted on 11 July 2000 at the 36th Ordinary Summit of the OAU in Lomé, Togo; and the African Union was subsequently launched at a summit held in Durban, South Africa, on 9 July 2002. At the same time the RECs/RMs were consolidating their respective legal arrangements. The African Heads of State and Government recognized the negative consequences of violent conflicts on civilians and the impact on socio-economic development and as a consequence enshrined in the Constitutive Act that the Union shall promote peace, security and stability on the continent; and promote democratic principles and institutions, popular participation and good governance. The adoption of the Constitutive Act marked a radical shift from the cardinal OAU principle of national sovereignty and non-intervention in national affairs. Although the Constitutive Act upholds the principle of non-interference, it also reserves the right of the Union “to intervene in a Member State in respect of grave circumstances namely: war crimes, genocide and crimes against humanity” (article 4h). The Constitutive Act also articulates the inseparable link between development and security, stating in its preamble that “the scourge of conflicts in Africa constitutes a major impediment to the socio-economic development of the continent and of the need to promote peace, security and stability as a prerequisite for the implementation of our development and integration agenda”. On the relationship between the Union on the one hand and the RECs/RMs on the other, the Constitutive Act underlines the need to “coordinate and harmonize the policies between the existing and future Regional Economic Communities for the gradual attainment of the objectives of the Union.”

In furtherance of this new and clear paradigm on security and development, the Union adopted the Protocol Relating to the Establishment of the Peace and Security Council (PSC Protocol), which entered into force on 26 December 2003. The Protocol embraces an expanded and comprehensive agenda for peace and security that includes conflict prevention, early warning and preventive diplomacy, peace-making, peace support operations and intervention, peace building and post-conflict reconstruction, humanitarian and disaster management. It establishes the PSC as a standing decision-making organ for the prevention, management and resolution of conflicts in the continent and to facilitate timely and efficient response to conflict and crisis situations in Africa. The PSC is supported by further APSA pillars, namely: the Panel of the Wise, the Continental Early Warning System (CEWS), the African Standby Force (ASF) and the Peace Fund. There is a complimentary African Governance Architecture (AGA) that is based on the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance. It was adopted in January 2007 and entered into force in February 2012.

Article 16 of the PSC Protocol deals with the relationship between the AU and the RMs. It states that the RMs are an integral part of APSA. Article 16 furthermore stipulates that with respect to conflict prevention, peacemaking and peacebuilding, there shall be regular exchange of information, close harmonization, coordination, cooperation and effective partnership between the PSC and the RMs. In addition, the RECs are a constituent part of this continental architecture, and are expected to play a set of vital functions. They are the building blocks of the AU and recognized in the PSC Protocol as part of the overall continental security architecture. In January 2008 a Memorandum of Understanding on Cooperation (MoU) in the area of peace and security between the African Union, the RECs and the Coordinating Mechanisms of the Regional Brigades of Eastern Africa and Northern Africa was signed to provide the framework for cooperation in order to strengthen coordination towards their shared goal of ridding the continent of the scourge of conflicts and laying the foundation for sustainable peace, security and stability on the continent.

Progress made in implementing APSA

APSA implementation has constantly been reviewed by the PSC. It has also been assessed externally twice, 2010 and 2014. The 2010 assessment “Moving Forward Africa” (the so-called Fisher report) recognised progress particular in those areas where roadmaps had been adopted, i.e. the ASF and CEWS. However, the report also noted that there remained challenges with regard to the vertical integration of APSA (i.e. between the Union and the RECs/RMs) and the limited levels of coordination between other pillars. It also highlighted the need for increased horizontal integration (i.e. within the AUC itself). Various components were developing at different paces, and the level of horizontal coordination had been limited. In addition challenges with regard to APSA’s sustainability and subsidiarity were identified. This assessment has translated into the APSA implementation roadmap for 2011-2013.

With the support of partners, the AU and the RECs used the period 2007 to 2011 to build the Union’s and REC/RM’s capacity for the prevention, management and resolution of conflicts. In particular, the AU and the RECs/RMs focused on developing the APSA pillars. These efforts enhanced the capacity of the Union and RECs/RMs in designing and implementing conflict early warning systems; strengthened these institutions’ preventive diplomacy capabilities and the planning and conduct of Peace Support Operations (PSOs); and set out to operationalize the ASF by providing the ASF at Union and RECs/RMs levels with the required staff, training and tools to work with. The aim of the APSA Roadmap 2011-2013 was therefore set to achieve the full operationalization of APSA. To this end, significant progress has been made in the operationalization of the APSA as documented in the 2010 and 2014 APSA assessment reports.

The 2014 APSA Assessment, which was tabled in March 2015, mapped out key priorities that are being addressed in the current APSA Roadmap. The Report addresses the following topics: the main APSA pillars, namely the PSC, the Panel, the ASF, CEWS and the Peace Fund; the AU’s strategic partnerships on peace and security with the RECs/RMs, with the UN and with the European Union (EU); mediation and preventive diplomacy; gender, peace and security; disarmament, demobilization and reintegration (DDR); security sector reform (SSR); maritime safety and security; counter-terrorism; climate change and security; the AU Border Programme; Post-Conflict Reconstruction and Development (PCRD); the AU Liaison Offices in conflict and post-conflict countries; engagement with Civil Society Organizations (CSOs); donor assistance to APSA; the RECs/RMs’ capacity-building needs for the operationalization of APSA; and the APSA Roadmap.

Notably, the following progress has been made with regard to the five APSA pillars and some other important policy fields.

1. Peace and Security Council

The PSC has become the centre of major decision-making on peace and security on the continent and it is viewed as such by the international community. The PSC provides leadership on peace and security challenges on the continent. It holds meetings and briefing sessions on a timely basis to address conflict and crisis.

The workload of the PSC has grown exponentially because of its visibility and its leadership and coordination role on the continent on issues of peace and security. The PSC has contributed to the resolution of many conflicts in the continent, inter alia in Somalia, Burundi, Mali, the Democratic republic of the Congo, Comoros, Madagascar, Côte d'Ivoire and actively involved with the relevant RECs to address threats and conflicts in their regions, for instance in the Central African Republic (CAR), Guinea Bissau, Sudan, South Sudan, Guinea, Niger, Kenya and Mauritania.

What remains to be addressed is the absence of an enforcement and compliance mechanisms with regard to the implementation of decisions made; the low level of interaction between the PSC and similar structures at the REC level; interaction between the PSC, the Panel of the Wise and the Chairperson's Special Envoys, Representatives and Mediators needs to be structured; and the increasing work load of the PSC Secretariat needs to be addressed.

2. Early Warning

Early Warning Systems (EWS) are established both on the continental and regional levels. The Continental Early Warning system (CEWS) at Union level, regional early warning systems of the Intergovernmental Authority for Development (IGAD: CEWARN), the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS: ECOWARN), the East African Community (EAC: EACWARN), the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA: COMWARN), the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS: MARAC). The Southern African Development Community (SADC) early warning system is intelligence based. CEWS, CEWARN and ECOWARN have been rather functional for some time. The early warning systems have been established to provide decision makers at continental level (PSC, the Chairperson, Commissioner and Director of Peace and Security) and at regional level with timely information, analysis and response options.

The CEWS and RECs have made considerable progress in terms of putting the necessary infrastructure, methodology and systems in place. CEWS continuously monitors and gathers information through its Situation Room, producing various reports, including early warning reports, situation updates, flash reports and weekly updates. The CEWS is making efforts to enhance coordination with AUC Peace and Security Department (AU PSD) Divisions and programmes. An Inter-Departmental Task Force on Conflict Prevention (IDTFPC) has been set up to facilitate dialogue among AUC Departments working on conflict prevention, more specifically structural conflict prevention. CEWARN, COMWARN and ECOWARN, too, have started disseminating EWS to decision-makers.

Coordination between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs continues through regular technical meetings, which are held twice a year. To date, 16 meetings have been held which discussed and reviewed, among other things, the customisation and sharing of CEWS tools as well as joint trainings on Strategic Conflict Assessments. Staff exchange visits and technical support programmes have also been carried out. CEWS continued to provide support in the establishment and strengthening of the EWS of AU Member States to enhance collaboration. Engagement with CSOs has been initiated through a workshop at the Union and the elaboration of modalities for collaboration. Collaboration with the UN (Cluster on conflict prevention), EU (Joint Research Centre) and the World Bank has also been established. Improving connectivity between CEWS and the REC EWS is in progress, three RECs have been connected and the others are in the process of being connected to the Union's VSAT (very small aperture terminal) network or other alternative means. CEWS and the RECs are in constant communication through other means, including the CEWS online portal. Progress has also been made in the REC-to-REC cooperation, particularly between CEWARN, EACWARN and COMWARN. The EWS of the Union and the RECs have developed methodological systems of monitoring to help establish a baseline for conflict analysis. The level of harmonisation and coordination between the AU and RMs has made tremendous progress and would be maintained and strengthened. The individual EWS of most RECs have made major advances.

However, some challenges remain to be vigorously addressed, including the weak linkage between early warning and early response by decision-makers; the gathering of non-adequate data due to the ever-changing conflict dynamics; the low connectivity between the CEWS and the EWS of the RECs; the lack of connectivity between National EWS and REC EWS; and the variation of levels of operationalization of various EWS at the level of the RECs.

3. Preventive Diplomacy and Mediation

In its mandate to perform preventive diplomacy functions, the PSC is supported by the AUC Chairperson, which must, under its authority and in consultation with all parties involved in a conflict, deploy efforts and take all initiatives deemed appropriate to prevent, manage and resolve a dispute. Indeed, the chairperson can, at his/her own initiative or when so requested by the PSC, use his/her good offices, either personally or through special envoys, special representatives, members of the AU Panel of the Wise or RECs/RMs, to prevent potential conflicts and resolve those that do occur. In exercising his/her powers, the chairperson is assisted by the Commissioner for Peace and Security and PSD.

In terms of structured mediation, the AUC Chairperson has frequently appointed special envoys and special representatives to act as the organisation's mediators. Mediation processes are by their very nature intensive, medium-to-long-term commitments, requiring a permanent, flexible and time-consuming engagement. Not only are the situations under mediation complex and protracted, the very environments within which mediation occurs are at times complex, often with a number of organisations and individuals involved (or wishing to be involved). There are currently approximately 25 high-level representatives, special envoys and special representatives deployed across the continent, many of whom act as mediators.

As a preventive diplomacy structure, the Panel of the Wise was constituted under Article 11 of the PSC Protocol to support the efforts of the PSC and those of the AUC Chairperson, particularly in the area of conflict prevention. The Panel is therefore an integral part of the AU preventive diplomatic framework.

The Panel has over the years focused on preventive diplomacy missions, in particular to countries undergoing election processes. In these missions, Panel members provide advice, open channels of communication, carry out fact-finding missions, undertake shuttle diplomacy and promote the adoption of confidence-building measures, among others. In addition, the Panel has included a thematic approach to its work and published a series of documents relating to election related violence, women and children in armed conflict, non-impunity, truth, justice and reconciliation, and strengthening governance for peace, security and stability.

The RECs are developing or have developed corresponding structures to the AU Panel of the Wise. SADC has established a mediation, conflict prevention and preventative diplomatic structure that includes a Panel of Elders and a Mediation Reference Group. ECOWAS has established the Council of the Wise and is in the process of creating a mediation facilitation unit. The EAC has decided to establish a Panel of Eminent Persons and is in the process of establishing a mediation unit. COMESA has established as part of its preventive diplomatic strategy, a Committee of Elders. In the 2015 crisis in Burundi, COMESA and EAC collaborated closely on mediation. The Community of Sahel-Saharan States (CEN-SAD) has established the Permanent High-Level Mediator for Peace and Security. IGAD has established a Mediation Unit and uses its committee of Ambassadors for mediation. And ECCAS is in the process of developing its mediation infrastructure with the assistance of the Union.

In 2013 the AU and the RECs have established the Pan-African Network of the Wise (PanWise) that aims to bring together relevant mediation actors of the Union, the RECs and African civil societies in order to enhance collaboration between the structures and harmonise approaches of the AU and RECs through workshops, joint missions and research.

The establishment of PanWise represents a great opportunity for developing and improving cooperation in the context of the African peace and security framework. Collaboration between the Panel of the Wise and the RECs has been tentative, but effective. ECOWAS and the Panel have been engaged in a number of preventive diplomacy and good offices missions, paying particular attention to election-related issues. The level of collaboration with the COMESA Committee of Elders is also very high. The Panel has progressively and effectively established links with all the RECs and has initiated several consultations with RECs to explore modalities of strengthening national capacities and establishing linkages between the national and regional and continental efforts in this regard. Coordination and collaboration efforts being undertaken should be encouraged and further institutionalised to avoid duplication of efforts, overlapping preventive diplomatic processes. The increased operationalization of PanWise is absolutely necessary, especially in the spirit of Agenda 2063.

Challenges remain with regard to inadequate levels of interaction between the Panel of the Wise, the PSC and the Chairperson; inadequate involvement of members of the Panel of the Wise in AU-led structured mediation engagements (with AU special envoys, representatives and mediators); the slow process of operationalization of PanWise; and, finally, the insufficient capacity of the Panel of the Wise Secretariat at AU.

4. The African Standby Force

It should be noted as underlined in the ASF Roadmap III that a great deal has been achieved so far in the development of the ASF. These achievements include a suite of common policy documents, an annual continental training implementation and coordination meeting, harmonised training standards and annual training directives that guide Member States and RECs/RMs and facilitate utilization of training centres in implementation of training programmes and standby forces that can be used collectively to address conflicts on the continent.

Good progress has also been made towards developing the Rapid Deployment Capability (RDC) concept. Considerable progress has equally been made in the development of the Civilian and Police Components of the ASF, notably in the area of policy development and the establishment of management capabilities at the strategic level of the AU and the operational level of the RECs/RMs. However, the establishment of the civilian component has continued to lag behind the military and police components.

The ASF assessment report recognises that on the overall, the capacity of African peace support operations has increased in numbers and quality. Implementation of the ASF Action plan 2014-2015 recommended by the independent team of experts has been a good basis and direction to ensure Full Operational Capability for the ASF by the end of 2015. Steps have also been taken to harmonise the ASF and the African Capacity for immediate Response to Crises (ACIRC), including the incorporation of ACIRC into the Amani Africa II Field Training Exercise that is aimed at validating the operational readiness of the ASF.

This is in line with the objective of the Union and the 25th AU Assembly’s decision to ensure the development of an ASF capacity that is able to deploy rapidly, with sustainable administrative and logistics support as well as management capabilities. However, the challenge of an adequate structure, framework and system to support the planning, deployment, management and sustenance of AU PSOs on a round-the-clock basis remains.

5. Other APSA Programmes

a. Post-Conflict Reconstruction and Peace Building

In its 10th Anniversary Declaration of May 2014, the PSC called for a stronger and more sustained support to countries emerging from conflict with regard to reconciliation and PCRDR. The Declaration stresses the importance of consolidating the peace and security gains in the post-conflict phase to prevent relapse into conflict. The importance of post-conflict reconstruction has also been underlined in the Solemn Declaration on the 50th Anniversary of the OAU/AU. The need to support sustainable peace, stability and development in countries that have emerged or emerging from conflict through the APSA is of paramount importance.

The focus of the AUC has been on developing the partnerships to operationalize the PCRDR Policy (2006) and put into place the necessary mechanisms and consultative platforms for its implementation. At the AUC-level, there has been a notable increase of joint activities with various Departments of the Commission, particularly with the Department of Political Affairs and of Social Affairs with a view to leveraging the comparative advantage of the various Departments on PCRDR. In that regard, in September 2014, the AUC held a joint meeting in Bangui, CAR, on the Union’s support to the transition plan prepared by the CAR authorities. At the national level, the PCRDR provided the African Union Liaison Offices (AULOs) with timely support through the funding of Peace Strengthening Projects (PSPs) aimed at addressing early recovery through support to reconciliation processes, peace building and rehabilitation/construction of small infrastructure projects at community level.

The heightened pace of awareness towards the mobilization of alternative resources for Africa’s development as epitomised in the convening of an African Solidarity Conference at level of Heads of State and Government held on 1 February 2014, in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, as part of activities marking 50th anniversary of the OAU/AU was a major achievement. A total of USD 3 million was pledged, however, the pledges still need to materialize.

AUC is currently establishing a funding mechanism for the African Solidarity Initiative (ASI). “Champion countries” are being mobilized to steer the process of further resource mobilization from within Africa. The PCRDR is assessing its support to the African Union Youth Volunteer (AUYV) programme with a view to enhancing the collaboration to respond to PCRDR strategy and priorities in countries emerging from conflict. Discussions on the location of the AU Centre for PCRDR have reached final stages.

At regional level, the RECs as building blocks for peace and security in Africa must be able to articulate clear regional positions on relevant PCRDR efforts. However, most of the RECs lack the capacity to undertake this critical role. The AUC is contributing to the establishment of PCRDR units and formulation of policies, strategies and programmes at REC level.

Much work has been done with respect to Security Sector Reform (SSR). The AU Security Sector Policy Framework provides a framework for Member States and the RECs in the formulation, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of SSR processes. The AUC has conducted series of SSR orientation, sensitisation and training at various levels throughout the continent. The AUC undertook assessment missions to Madagascar and CAR and deployed experts to Comoros, CAR and South Sudan. Most RECs are also promoting governance through SSRs and taking initiatives in their various Member States with the active collaboration with internal partners. The joint AU, ECOWAS, EU and UN Security Assessment Mission to Guinea Bissau conducted in March 2015 stands as a good example.

In addition, the AU has developed an AU Disarmament, Demobilisation and Reintegration Capacity Programme (AU DDRCP). The objective of the AU DDRCP is to strengthen capacities within the AUC, its Member States, RECs and RMs. The AU DDRCP was officially launched in 2013. The AUC is already providing assistance to national DDR processes pursuant to requests made by member states. It collaborates closely with international partners. The capacity of the AU and RECs would continue to be enhanced in order to address specific request from Member States.

Remaining challenges include the complex nature of post-conflict issues and the level of resources PCRD requires; lack of coordination to align PCRD efforts with other peace and security programs both at the AU and RECs level; understaffed Unit at the level of the AUC and limited financial resources; the low level of capacity at the RECs levels and lack of shared learning between the RECs; and aligning regional peace building objectives to national stabilization plans.

b. Strategic Security Issues

It is recognized that in the past 50 years since the establishment of the OAU, countries in all regions have experienced varying degrees of state fragility, caused by poor economic management, ethnic conflict and civil wars, and natural and man-made disasters as indicated in the Agenda 2063 framework document. Although African countries are stronger institutionalized today, the threat of state fragility lingers on through important “neighbourhood effects” such as narcotic drugs, maritime piracy, human trafficking and small arms proliferation. The Solemn Declaration on the 50th Anniversary of the OAU/AU expressed the determination of the African Heads of State and Government to eradicate recurrent and address emerging sources of conflict, including piracy, trafficking in narcotics and human beings, all forms of extremism, armed rebellions, terrorism, transnational organized crime and new crimes such as cybercrime. In its 10th Anniversary Declaration the PSC also noted with concern the growing threat of terrorism in Africa and called on the AUC and the Secretariats of the RECs/RMs to come up with a comprehensive Union strategy for addressing the phenomenon of extremism, terrorism and other emerging threats to peace and security in Africa such as piracy, human trafficking, drug trafficking, religious tensions, and the spread of small arms and light weapons. Furthermore, the PSC calls for the development of mechanisms within APSA to deal with these emerging threats.

The AU and the RECs have developed a number of policies, instruments and tools to address these emerging threats. There are the AU Small Arms and Light Weapons (SALW) Proliferation Strategy and, at the RECs level, strategies on small arms proliferation, such as the Nairobi Protocol, the Southern Africa Firearms Protocol, the ECOWAS SALW Convention, the Kinshasa Convention for the Control of SALW and their Ammunition in Central Africa as well as the Regional Centre For Small Arms, the AU Counter Terrorism model law developed by African Centre for Studies and Research on Terrorism (ACSRT), and the AUC counter terrorism framework. EAC has adopted a SALW policy. Some RECs have developed strategies on counter terrorism such as the ECOWAS political declaration on a common position against terrorism, the EAC counter-terrorism strategy, and IGAD's Mutual Legal Assistance and Extradition Law.

On maritime security, the AU has adopted the 2050 Africa Integrated Maritime Strategy (2050 AIMS), the governments of West and Central Africa have adopted a declaration on maritime safety and security in their common maritime domain. The Southern and Eastern African RECs, COMESA, EAC, and IGAD together with the Indian Ocean Community have developed and are implementing a regional maritime programme to combat piracy.

However, some challenges remain, such as the need to develop greater cooperation and harmonization of continental efforts in combatting terrorism and implementation of the continental frameworks and strategies as well as an effective and appropriate system of follow-up mechanisms; the integration of maritime security into the APSA; and the implementation of existing agreements on SALW.

6. Cross cutting Issues

Gender mainstreaming in peace and security: UN Security Council Resolution 1325 is the cornerstone on women, peace and security. This global framework is supplemented at the continental level by the AU Solemn Declaration on Gender Equality in Africa which calls for the need to ensure the full and effective participation and representation of women in peace processes including the prevention, management and resolution of conflicts and post-conflict resolutions in Africa. The AU Gender policy seeks to enhance the role of women in creating an enabling, stable and peaceful environment for the pursuit of Africa's development agenda.

The RECs and their Member States have developed gender policies, adopted gender declarations and action plans that guide their gender mainstreaming programmes. The AU has launched a major five-year Gender, Peace and Security Programme 2015-2020. The Programme was mapped out through a long process of consultation with the RECs and CSOs. Since the launch of the Programme, the AU, RECs and CSOs have together developed annual work plans for 2015 and 2016. The work plans would continue to address challenges relating to capacity constraints in implementing and monitoring the Programme at Union and RECs levels, the implementation of joint activities, support given to AU field missions and, the Special Envoy on Women Peace and Security in discharging her duties. The Programme is built on high level of cooperation and collaboration among the AU, RECs, CSOs and relevant partners.

Still, appropriate indicators for gender mainstreaming need to be developed as well as the necessary skills to use the relevant tools to monitor the indicators. In addition, staffing levels need to be scaled up to implement the gender programme.

Climate change: The manifold consequences of climate change represent another of the many threats facing Africa. Indeed, climate change is viewed by many as a threat multiplier that exacerbates security trends, tensions and stability. The AU is already taking steps to address the effects of climate change through the AU Department of Rural Economy and Agriculture. The Department administers various programmes on climate change, including the Monitoring of Environment and Security in Africa. The Commission supports the African Regional Strategy for disaster risk reduction management by the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD). The Commission, the African Development Bank (AfDB) and the UN Economic Commission for Africa are supporting a major initiative, the Global Climate Change Observing System – Africa. The African Climate Policy Centre, which addresses the need for greatly improved climate information for Africa and strengthening the use of such information for decision making for Africa, is operational. There are also several regional initiatives on climate change in Africa like the regional climate change programme for Southern Africa, which has developed GIS (Geographic Information System) risk and vulnerability guidelines for SADC. ECOWAS is attempting to do the same. Structures for climate change and early warning exist in Africa. How these structures would collaborate with the CEWS and the regional early warning mechanisms would need to be studied.

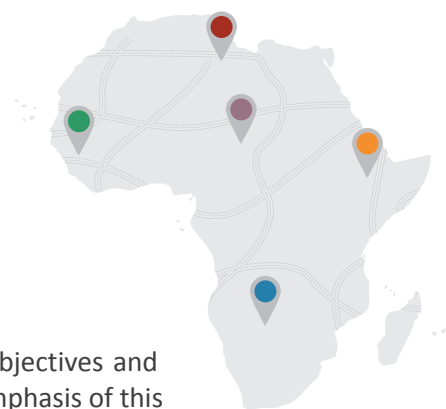

Enhanced coordination and collaboration between the African Union and REC/RMs structures that deal with climate change on the one hand and the early warning and conflict prevention functions of the PSD on the other remain a challenge.

7. Relations between the AU and RECs/RMs in peace and security

The RECs are the building blocks of the African Union and recognized in the PSC Protocol as part of the overall security architecture of the African Union. The MoU between the AU, the RECs and the RMs of the Regional Standby Forces of Eastern Africa and Northern Africa provides the framework for cooperation in order to strengthen coordination towards their shared goal of ridding the continent of the scourge of conflicts and laying the foundation for sustainable peace, security and stability on the continent.

The level of cooperation and coordination between the AU and RECs/RMs is very intensive, particularly in the operationalization of APSA which is one of the objectives of the MoU. Liaison Officers to the AU from the RECs/RMs have been established as well as AU Liaison officers to the RECs/RMs. The establishment of the Liaison Offices by the AU and the RECs/RMs has strengthened linkages between the AU and the RECs/RMs, improving the exchange of information. The Senior Officials of the AU and RECs/RMs meet regularly to strengthen coordination and harmonization in the area of peace and security and discuss the status of the implementation of the MoU. A Joint Task Force comprising AU Officials and RECs /RMs Liaison Officers to the AU has been established to work out modalities to ensure implementation of the existing policy frameworks regarding AU-RECs/RMs collaboration and coordination in the area of peace and security.

In order to fully optimize the partnership between the AU and the RECs/RMs, the principles of subsidiarity, complementarity and comparative advantage need to be applied. Moreover, the PSC, in a Communiqué issued after its 477th meeting held on 18 December 2014, underscores the importance of building more collaboration and synergy between the PSC and RECs/RMs in the promotion of peace and stability in Africa as envisaged in the PSC Protocol. The Council stressed the need to uphold the principles of subsidiarity and comparative advantage in a way that strengthens the efforts of Africa to achieve durable peace and sustainable development. The PSC also endorsed – through its Communiqué issued after the Council’s 549th meeting held on 9 October 2015 – the conclusions of a retreat on the enhancement of cooperation between the PSC and RECs/RMs held in Abuja, Nigeria from 14 to 16 September 2015, particularly relating to the issue of conflict mediation.

The APSA Roadmap 2016–2020: Strategic Priorities and Indicators

This Roadmap is based on an agreed planning methodology, with clear objectives and priorities for 2016-2020 and the main strategies for achieving them. The emphasis of this Roadmap is on implementation and an adequate monitoring and evaluation mechanism. Another principle that guided the development of the Roadmap is the strong need for communication, cooperation and coordination between the AU, the RECs/RMs and other international actors. As far as possible, the facilitation of synergies would be encouraged. The Union and the RECs/RMs have limited resources, and therefore every effort should be made to avoid duplication and overlaps, which lead to inefficient use of resources.

The Roadmap is built on five thematic priorities with clear broad objectives defined for each thematic priority covering the conflict prevention, management and resolution cycle, as indicated below and as elaborated in the accompanying framework:

- 1 Strategic Priority 1: Conflict Prevention
- 2 Strategic Priority 2: Crisis/Conflict Management
- 3 Strategic Priority 3: Post-Conflict Reconstruction and Peacebuilding
- 4 Strategic Priority 4: Strategic Security Issues
- 5 Strategic Priority 5: Coordination and Partnerships

1 Strategic Priority 1: Conflict Prevention

Conflict prevention involves, simultaneously, a direct and operational focus of intervening before violence occurs as well as a systematic, strategic focus of addressing the root, proximate, and structural causes of conflict. Effective preventive action is the accurate identification of factors and timely combined application of structural and direct prevention measures. Within the context of APSA, the development and implementation of early warning systems at the AU and the RECs have been priority activity areas, marked by the strengthening of existing EWS as well as the development of an early warning capability at some of the RECs where this capability did not exist. These developments have been guided by the principles of comparative advantage, non-duplication of efforts as well as harmonisation, coordination and collaboration as conflict prevention is enhanced by coordination through collaborative data gathering and joint analysis by relevant APSA stakeholders.

Central to APSA's fulfilment of direct and structural prevention is the coordination and collaboration between the EWS in place and/or under operationalization at the AU and the RECs/RMs, the various panels of the wise/panels of elders (at AU and RECs/RMs) mandated with conflict prevention responsibilities and the high level decision-makers that in each institution are tasked with conflict prevention responsibilities (at AU, the AU PSC and the AUC Chairperson).

The overall strategic objective of strategic priority 1 is to contribute to effective, coordinated and timely direct and structural prevention of conflicts and crises by the AU and the RECs/RMs.

Strategic Objective 1 Indicators

- Evidence of enhanced capacity of CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs to individually and collaboratively monitor, collect and analyse data on the basis of tools and methodologies developed
- Conflict prevention interventions (direct and structural) are informed by systematic/joint early warning and analysis
- Direct conflict prevention interventions by AU/RECs/RMs (preventive diplomacy) are timely, coordinated and effective
- Evidence of structural prevention responses/interventions
- Evidence of APSA stakeholders cooperation in preventive actions
- Evidence of use of early warning reports by decision makers.

Strategic priority 1 has been divided into six specific objectives, each of them addressing one major obstacle to effective response. They are presented in the following sections.

1.1 Capacities of CEWS and the EWS

Although well advanced with regards to the implementation of event data collection tools and data management and sharing tools, as well as the required Information and Communications Technology (ICT) infrastructure and methodologies, full implementation of the AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs (ECOWARN, CEWARN, COMWARN, EACWARN, among others), data collection and monitoring tools has not yet been fully achieved. This is due to: rapid changing nature of conflicts and their dynamics requiring a constant re-assessment of the adequacy of existing data collection tools; insufficient human resources; methodology handbooks and Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) is not always followed by analysts and not always relying on data generated by existing tools; limited frequency of early warning reports; inadequate feedback from decision-makers on early warning reports; absence of structured interaction between CEWS/EWS-RECs and relevant staff from other departments. With regards to analysis, AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs need to strengthen the quality, frequency and timeliness of early warning reports, situation updates, flash reports, weekly updates and other types of reports, including the strengthening of scenario-building and policy/response options contained therein. Moreover, and with specific reference to EWS at the RECs currently in early stages of development, additional efforts must be taken to accelerate the development of methodologies and tools for data gathering and analysis as well as capacity for the production of early warning and other types of reports.

The specific objective 1 is therefore to enhance the capacity of the AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs to systematically monitor, collect and analyse relevant information in order to provide timely early warning reports, updates and other types of reports.

Priority 1 Specific Objective 1 indicators

- Existing data collection, analysis and methodology tools developed, tested, fully implemented and customised
- Evidence of improved quality of data gathered (widened variety, timeliness, relevance, verifiable)
- Evidence of trend tracking tools fully implemented (where applicable: Africa Reporter, CAAS, Democracy Trends Reports)
- Increased consistency in the production of early warning reports by CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs
- Increased frequency of production of early warning alerts by CEWS/EWS-RECs
- Evidence of data tools usage in the reports
- Reports following adopted methodologies
- Evidence of interaction with the PSD/Department of Political Affairs (DPA)/RECs staff in terms of peer reviews, joint writing of reports including situational and analysis reports
- Evidence of AU CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs use of AU DPA Election Risk Management Tools or similar tools at REC level
- Evidence of the RECs/RMs use of Election observation and Political Analysis Reports
- Percentage of African borders demarcated
- Number of African States having established National Border Commissions to manage their borders

The main strategies envisaged to reach this objective focus on two key dimensions: (i) the full operationalization of the data collection, monitoring and analysis systems at both AU and RECs; and (ii) the improvement of the quality and quantity of early warning reports by AU CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs. In the first dimension, a series of activities are envisaged, including, customisation of existing data collection and analysis tools; operationalization of new tools (i.e. Conflict Alerting and Analysis Tools (CAAS) as well as ICT infrastructure support and secure access). With relation to the second key dimension (frequency and quality of reporting) strategies include: the recruitment of requisite number of staff; the expansion of coverage of conflict typologies and geographical areas; training of AUC and RECs/RMs staff (on tools; on conflict analysis; on statistical analysis) and also a survey of analysts, desk officers and decision makers.

1.2 Interaction between CEWS, regional and national EWS

Although working relations between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs have been marked by increased collaboration over the years (Technical Quarterly Meetings, joint briefings, technical support missions, experience sharing, etc.), there is still quite some way to go in terms of systematic collaboration on data collection, early warning analyses and other activities. This limited systematic collaboration is due to, inter alia, technological and methodological challenges (lack of system of data and information sharing; need to continue to co-develop data collection tools; actual sharing of information); varying stages of operationalization of early warning systems; challenges of information and analysis sharing related to political will.

The specific objective 2 is therefore to deepen the substantive and systematic interaction between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs, between the EWS of the RECs/RMs, and between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs and their national early warning systems.

Priority 1 Specific Objective 2 indicators

- The CEWS and the EWS of the RECs are regularly connected
- The EWS of the RECs are regularly connected
- Evidence of institutionalised early warning systems' systematic sharing of data (increase in information sharing)
- Evidence of strengthened collaboration
- Attendance and participation by CEWS and EWS of the RECs at the Technical Meetings
- Evidence of information sharing between CEWS and EWS as well as between RECs
- Evidence of analysis sharing and co-development of scenario-building and policy response options formulation
- The RECs and their national early warning units are regularly connected and systematically share data

The main strategies envisaged to reach this objective focus on simultaneously strengthening the connectivity (from a technical ICT perspective) between the CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs and between the EWS of the RECs/RMs; as well as activities geared towards institutionalizing the sharing of data, information and analysis between the CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs on on-going and developing situations. With relation to the first area of focus, activities envisaged include ensuring connectivity via the AU VSAT; purchasing the necessary equipment and securing access; addressing the issues relating to hosting application tools. In terms of the former dimension (related to efforts at institutionalizing collaboration), strategies and activities focus on supporting the RECs/RMs with the operationalization of their EWS (particular those at earlier stages of development) through the provision of training and experience-sharing, and activities focused on deepening the collaboration on analysis (including scenario-building and policy options formulation; expanding the practice of weekly joint briefings; conducting further CEWS simulations with the RECs/RMs and promoting joint analyses; promoting deeper exchanges of experience between EWS of the RECs.

1.3 Engagement of CEWS/EWS with decision-makers

The two APSA assessments (2010 and 2014) pointed to the limited interaction or “modest engagement” between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs and their respective decision-makers, which limits the efficacy of early warning information and analysis. In the case of CEWS, this interaction relates particularly to the PSC, the office of the Chairperson and other structures and organs of the AU (Panel of the Wise, DPA, etc.). This “modest engagement” is in part due to: (i) limited opportunities for direct interaction between CEWS/RECs and their respective decision-makers; (ii) established information flows at AUC and also at RECs levels which make direct interaction difficult; (iii) in the case of the AU, limited understanding by AU structures and organs of what CEWS does and what outputs/products it produces; and (iv) lack of monitoring and feedback mechanisms allowing CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs to measure quality of interaction, quality of outputs, needs of decision makers, etc.

Specific objective 3 is therefore to enhance engagement between CEWS, the EWS of the RECs/RMs and national early warning centres with their respective decision-makers.

Priority 1 Specific Objective 3 indicators

- Evidence of interaction between CEWS and the PSC
- Evidence of interaction between EWS and relevant statutory bodies
- Evidence of early warning reports being pushed up the decision-making structure (either in their 'pure' form or used in other reports such as the Chairperson's Report to the PSC)
- Evidence of deeper inter-departmental collaboration in briefing relevant decision makers at AU (PSD, DPA, others)
- At REC level evidence of increased production and dissemination of reports to decision-makers
- Evidence of decision makers at different levels using and taking into account the analysis and recommendations contained in the Early Warning Reports (EWRs) and briefings
- Feedback on the quality of reports obtained from decision-makers/others as appropriate

The first set of strategies envisaged to reach this objective focuses on enhancing the opportunities for interaction, including briefings and meetings between the CEWS and AU decision-makers (PSC, Chairperson, Commissioners) as well as the EWS of the RECs and their respective decision-makers. This includes activities geared towards exploring all possible opportunities for interaction in the context of each institution (including joint briefings with other departments); the improvement of reporting templates and the further institutionalization of verbal briefings; deployment of CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs information and sensitization campaigns within their institutions; developing feedback mechanisms whereby decision-makers systematically provide comments and inputs on early warning products; and, substantive involvement of decision-makers (including at national level) in assessments conducted (example: structural vulnerability assessments, SVAs). Second, this objective will require the CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs to support the development of national early warning capabilities (where appropriate) through training and capacity building, the regular exchange of information and analysis with Member States' institutions, and, the hosting of joint simulation exercises with national early warning centres.

1.4 Collaboration of CEWS/EWS with external stakeholders

Comprehensive, timely and effective early warning information and analysis requires close collaboration with key stakeholders such as parliamentarians, partner organisations, in particular African CSOs (NGOs, research centres, academic institutions, think-tanks, CBOs) and international organisations such as the UN, the World Bank and others. Both the AU and the RECs/RMs regard collaboration with CSOs/International Organisations on matters of data collection and analysis sharing as necessary for the successful operation of their early warning systems. African and Africa-based academics, researchers, development practitioners, humanitarian relief personnel, representatives of community based organisations, professional associations and women's and youth groups, professionals, etc., possess an impressive wealth of knowledge and experience, wide access to information and local actors – all of which can strengthen the quality of the outputs produced by the CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs.

Yet, as pointed out in the 2014 APSA assessment, although at AU level engagement with CSOs has been initiated and collaboration with the UN (cluster on conflict prevention), the EU (joint research centre) and the World Bank has been established, there continues to be limited substantive interaction between CEWS and RECs/RMs and stakeholders such as CSOs, international organisations and bilateral countries (here the exception being ECOWARN and WANEP). Part of the reasons for this are related to a lack of detailed understanding of what exactly CEWS/EWS of the RECs/RMs do (particularly their data collection tools, methodology and approach; a closed system that uses open-source information); lack of appropriate 'points of entry/contact' for external stakeholders to interact on data gathering; analysis and formulation of options; and, ultimately, lack of political will – as can be seen for instance in the AU, and some of the RECs.

Specific objective 4 is therefore to enhance collaboration between CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs with relevant external stakeholders with regards to information and analysis sharing as well as development of policy and response options.

Priority 1 Specific Objective 4 indicators

- CEWS-CSOs and other stakeholders Modalities for Collaboration approved and implemented
- CSOs, International Organisations, Academia, Think Tanks, and parliaments are 'plugged into the system' (information sharing) and contribute with data collection, monitoring and analysis
- CEWS and RECs hold briefing sessions with CSOs/International Organisations/Academia and Think Tanks

The main strategies envisaged to reach this objective focus on the establishment of regular and systematic communication channels between the CEWS/EWS of the RECs/RMs and relevant external stakeholders (development of the CEWS Portal, joint briefing sessions); development of the necessary ICT requirements so that relevant external stakeholders can plug into the various systems' tools (even data collection, indicator monitoring; other points of entry, such as analysis); adoption and implementation of a CEWS-CSOs modalities of collaboration framework; and, establishment and strengthening of linkages and networks with national and subnational CSOs. In addition, and in order for relevant stakeholders to meaningfully contribute to the efforts of CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs, training and capacity building activities to CSOs, academic organisations and think tanks in the field of early warning, structural vulnerability analysis and conflict prevention more broadly are planned.

1.5 Capacity for structural conflict prevention

The AU and the RECs/RMs acknowledge that conflict prevention must include both a direct focus of intervening before large-scale violence occurs (preventive diplomacy and associated tools), as well as focus on the structural (root) causes of conflict. However, structural conflict prevention remains at an incipient stage at both continental and sub-regional levels. This is despite the fact that, for instance, the African Union Border Programme (AUBP) is systematically addressing the continent's poorly defined borders in an attempt to prevent conflict that could stem from disputed borders. The Union has also addressed the issue of structural conflict prevention in numerous key policy documents (on human rights, governance, democratisation, the fight against corruption, disarmament, socio-economic development, management of natural resources among many others). However, it was not until 2014 that a specific framework on structural conflict prevention has been adopted (it was finally endorsed by the PSC on 29 April 2015). The Continental Structural Conflict Prevention Framework (CSCPF) aims at strengthening the AU's direct prevention actions with activities to assist Member States in addressing/identifying structural vulnerability of countries to conflict at an early stage and is to be supported by the AUC Inter-Departmental Taskforce on Conflict Prevention (IDTFCP).

At the same time, the African Union has adopted an African Governance Architecture (AGA), through the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance (2007). It is aiming at addressing many of the dimensions of structural vulnerability, including good governance, the rule of law, democracy and human rights, popular participation, management of public funds and service delivery among others.

Implementation of the CSCPF is still at an incipient stage, a result of lack of resources (staff and financial), the need to mainstream conflict prevention (in its various dimensions) in the work of the AUC, among others. Moreover, linkages between APSA and AGA as well as the AU and the RECs in the domain of structural conflict prevention remain tenuous, partly as a result of a lack of communication and collaboration between different departments at AUC, and between the AU and the RECs.

Specific objective 5 is therefore to enhance the capacity for structural conflict prevention by the AU and the RECs.

Priority 1 Specific Objective 5 indicators

- At Continental level, the CSCPF is finalised (reviewed by PSD and other stakeholders) and shared
- CSVAs are conducted jointly with relevant RECs
- Results of the CSVA are communicated to the IDTFCP and to decision-makers
- IDTFCP meets regularly
- Decision-makers take into account the analysis and results of the CSVA
- The AUC gradually develops an early/early prevention posture
- Increased harmonization between APSA and AGA
- Deepened link between the AU and the RECs on structural conflict prevention
- Evidence of coordination with RECs/RMs on border management and cross border cooperation
- Evidence of implementation of the (to be) adopted Enhanced Border Management Strategy

The main strategies and activities envisaged for this objective include aspects related to the finalization and operationalization of related policies, mainstreaming conflict prevention as well as enhancing APSA actors' capacity to undertake structural vulnerability analysis/assessments. At continental level for example, this includes the operationalization of the CSCPF and the conduct of CSVAs and Country Structural Vulnerability Mitigation Strategies (CSVMS) while at REC/RM level it includes the operationalization of existing conflict prevention frameworks. Activities focusing on the mainstreaming conflict prevention across the AU Commission but also at the various RECs/RMs are central to this strategy – for example, at the AUC this includes regular meetings of the IDTFCP.

In addition, activities are proposed in the context of strengthening the institutional linkages between the APSA and the AGA to support and complement the efforts of Member States to achieve their commitments in terms of human rights and the rule of law, popular participation, management of public funds, transparency, elections among others. This includes the regular provision by the AGA Secretariat of situational analysis to the PSC; AGA participation at the IDTFCP; conduct of joint missions between DPA and PSD; and elections/post-election joint assessments.

In terms of capacity development, strategies include the sharing of existing methodologies, manuals and SOPs by the CEWS with relevant RECs/RMs, as well as the training of analysts with regards to structural vulnerability assessments. It also includes the joint development by CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs of CSVAs.

1.6 Capacity to deploy and conduct preventive diplomacy

The costs of managing conflict once it has erupted (whether in fielding peacekeeping operations or providing humanitarian relief), of engaging in lengthy mediation and peace-making efforts, as well as the very high costs of recovery (rebuilding economic and socio-political systems) and the incalculable costs in human suffering and loss of human capital have underscored the concern with conflict prevention at continental and sub-regional levels. Indeed, recognising that the human, financial and material costs of prevention are considerably less than the devastating consequences of armed violence, the AU and the RECs have for more than two decades developed policies and instruments designed to prevent violent conflict.

Nevertheless, there is a sense that a ‘culture of fire fighting’ prevails, with these organisations tending to act (or being prompted to act) only when situations have already turned violent. At both AU and REC levels there are several actors with a direct conflict prevention mandate – at the AU, for example, the PSC, the Chairperson, the Panel of the Wise as well as special representatives/envoys appointed by the Chairperson can undertake preventive diplomacy missions. Likewise, at the RECs/RMs several actors are tasked with conflict prevention responsibilities. The prevalence of a ‘culture of fire fighting’ appears to be related to overall capacity, resources as well as these organisations’ need not to lose focus on on-going high intensity conflicts/on-going peace support operations. Yet, this can also be attributed to a lacking culture of prevention as well as the ad-hoc nature of decision-making, planning and deployment of preventive diplomacy missions (absence of a preventive diplomacy system).

Specific objective 6 is therefore to enhance the capacity of the AU and the RECs to effectively deploy and conduct preventive diplomacy (direct prevention).

Priority 1 Specific Objective 6 indicators

- Evidence of frequency, relevance and efficacy of preventive diplomacy missions undertaken by the AU and the RECs (good offices, fact finding, conciliation, pre-election missions)
- At the AU, evidence of closer coordination between PSC, Chairperson, Special Envoys and Members of the Panel of the Wise (both informal as well as formal through participation in PSC meetings, etc.)
- Members of the Panel of the Wise/Friends of the Panel/PanWise are regularly tasked with preventive diplomacy missions
- REC Policy Organs task their respective Councils of Elders or similar structures to undertake preventive diplomacy actions
- Evidence of preventive diplomacy missions undertaken by Councils of Elders or similar structures
- Confidential reports of Councils of Elders or similar structures presented to decision makers
- PSC and AUC Chairperson as well as Executive Secretary's at RECs regularly conduct preventive diplomacy missions/other undertakings
- Knowledge Management Framework (KMF) implemented as part of an M&E system
- Evidence of joint missions with RECs under the PanWise umbrella
- Evidence of strengthened capacity for direct prevention at national level (national infrastructures for peace)

There are two main strategies to attain the objective above, particularly with regards to an increase on frequency, relevance and efficacy of preventive diplomacy missions undertaken by the AU and the RECs. On the one hand, AU and RECs/RMs actors involved in preventive diplomacy missions must be equipped with the relevant skills, capacities and support required for timely and effective interventions. This involves: targeted training based on needs assessment to special envoys, representatives and members of the Panel of the Wise; finalization of recruitment and training of staff for the various existing institutions/organs responsible for preventive diplomacy (AUC, Panel of the Wise Secretariat and related institutions at the RECs/RMs); implementation of the KMF as well as the 2012 mediation SOPs to preventive diplomacy interventions; creation and operationalization of an operational support team; operationalization of PanWise; among others.

Furthermore, and in order for a more predictable and integrated preventive diplomacy system to develop, strategies at the AU level are geared towards enhancing the coordination between the PSC, the Chairperson, special envoys, special representatives and members of the Panel of the Wise. With regards to AU and RECs/RMs, the strengthening of linkages with regard to preventive diplomacy missions, including decision-making, planning and deployment of joint missions is key. Indeed, the strategic objective defined above depends on a clearly defined system and process for decision-making, planning, deployment and conduct of preventive diplomacy missions in a coordinated fashion – both within as well as across APSA institutions. Here, the first and perhaps most important activity relates to the finalization of the consultations for the AU Mediation Support Unit (MSU) as well as those at the RECs/RMs. In addition, the development of an integrated preventive diplomacy and mediation strategy (capturing the two different but complementary dimensions) is envisaged as a priority activity. Finally, it is critical that the AU and the RECs/RMs develop outreach and information actions focusing on their actual roles in direct conflict prevention as well as develop strategies for fund raising and sustainability.

2 Strategic Priority 2: Crisis/Conflict Management

The AU and the RECs/RMs are increasingly deploying African-led peace support operations in response to crisis and conflict situations across the continent. Although the political will to undertake such operations has grown rapidly, the operational ability to do so still requires significant investment. To ensure that African peace operations can deploy rapidly when required, and be effective throughout the duration of their deployment, the operational readiness of the African Standby Force (ASF), and the planning, management, deployment and sustainment of Africa peace support operations, need to be enhanced.

The increase in opportunities for peace-making by regional and sub-regional organisations, and by civil society organisations including NGOs and CBOs has resulted in an exponential growth in mediation interventions in Africa at multiple levels. Mediation is increasingly used by the UN, AU, RECs/RMs and at national level as an approach to the peaceful settlement of disputes and conflicts. This form of peace-making is here understood as a structured process, involving a third party who is not a party to the conflict, the acceptance of mediation and a particular mediator by parties to a dispute, and the voluntary nature of agreements reached. As noted in the 2014 APSA assessment, in most of the major conflicts in Africa, the AU has either engaged directly in mediation or supported mediation led by one of the RECs. Indeed, between 2007 and 2014, the African Union deployed special envoys, special representatives or mediators to Guinea, Madagascar, Guinea-Bissau, Comoros, Niger, Burundi, CAR, Somalia, Sudan, the Great Lakes Region, Liberia and Mali. The importance, complexity and difficulty of mediation and preventive diplomacy require a systematic and professional approach, where collaboration and coordination between actors and a high level of expertise and professional support are required.

2 The first objective for strategic priority 2 of the roadmap is therefore to contribute to enhanced operational readiness of the ASF, and more effective African PSOs.

First Strategic Objective 2 Indicators

- Evidence of cooperation between AU, RECs/RMs and Member States in the development and retention of PSO capabilities
- Evidence of cooperation between AU, RECs/RMs and Member States in the planning and deployment of operations
- Evidence of systems and procedures which enable the deployment of PSOs
- Evidence of timely deployment of operations within the context of relevant frameworks
- Evidence of effective planning and management of operations

2 The second objective for the strategic priority 2 of the roadmap is to contribute to the effective and coordinated management and resolution of conflicts and crises through mediation by the AU and the RECs.

Second Strategic Objective 2 Indicators

- Evidence of timely and coordinated mediation interventions by the AU, RECs/RMs
- Evidence of enhanced capacity at the AU, RECs/RMs to plan, deploy, manage and support mediation interventions
- Evidence of enhanced capacity by actors at national level to plan and conduct mediation interventions
- Evidence of enhanced cooperation between the AU, RECs/RMs and the UN on mediation interventions

Strategic priority 2 has been broken down into six specific objectives, each of them addressing one major obstacle to effective response. They are presented in the following sections.

2.1 Political/legal decision-making mechanisms

Decision-making for an ASF operation (mandated to use force) requires consultations that will help determine an appropriate framework, scope and resource requirements for such engagement. In this regard, consultations and actions are required at principally four levels, including the UN; the AU; the concerned REC/RM; and the potential Troop and Police Contributing Countries. Coherent and well sequenced decision making is critical to ensuring that an ASF operation is able to respond swiftly and deploy rapidly within the specified deployment timeframes, for instance 14-days in the case of rapid response to mass atrocities, war crimes and crimes against humanity (Scenario 6, ASF Policy Framework). It is also critical to ensure that an operation has the requisite authority and legitimacy. If political and legal decision-making and authorisation is lacking any, limited to and/or slow at all (or any of the) four levels of actors, this can significantly impede rapid deployment. In this regard, political and legal decision-making processes at the four levels need to be synchronised and/or streamlined to facilitate expedited mandating and rapid deployment processes.

2 The specific objective 1 is therefore to ensure that political and legal decision making mechanisms are clarified, harmonised and structured between specifically the AU and the RECs/RMs so as to enable more effective cooperation in the mandating, deployment and management of operations.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 1 indicators

- Existence and utilisation of harmonised and streamlined policies, guidance and procedures (between the AU and the RECs/RMs) informing PSO mandating and decision making for the planning, deployment and management of PSOs
- Evidence of planned and structured consultations amongst AUC Departments and Divisions on the planning, mandating/decision making and deployment of PSOs
- Evidence of joint AU and RECs/RMs planning, programming and assessment in relation to the development and enhancement of the ASF
- Evidence of joint AU and RECs/RMs analysis and planning for operations
- Evidence of AU and RECs/RMs coordination/collaboration in the preparation of deployments
- Evidence of timely deployment of operations
- Increased rapidity in the deployment of PSOs

The main set of strategies/activities envisaged for the fulfilment of this objective are focused on ensuring consultation and agreement amongst the AU, RECs/RMs and Member States to consider the harmonisation and streamlining of their political and legal instruments, procedures and timeframes in support of rapid and well-coordinated responses. Specifically, this will include workshops (of the concerned decision makers of the AU, RECs/RMs and Member States) that will generate concrete recommendations (on harmonisation and coordination of decision-making), which in turn will be submitted for formal endorsement and action. A second set of activities are targeted at actions that need to be taken by the planning elements at the AU and RECs/RMs to assess each procedure within the decision-making chain and to define and assign responsibilities as appropriate. The review of the MoU on Cooperation in the Area of Peace and Security between the AU and the RECs/RMs will need to be facilitated to, amongst other aspects, provide guidance on legal and procedural aspects as concerned with the mandating, planning, deployment, management, sustenance and liquidation of ASF operations. All relevant personnel will require good orientation and training on legal and procedural aspects of the ASF. Additionally, the AU and RECs/RMs will need to review all existing legal arrangements for ongoing peace support operations with the view to ensure a sound legal basis and framework for the employment of the ASF. The last set of activities will pertain to meetings and processes for the development of a system to monitor decision-making and implementation for the ASF.

2.2 Capacity to plan, deploy, manage, sustain and liquidate

The Planning Elements (PLANELMs) were established to serve as management capability for the ASF and exist at the level of the AU and the RECs/RMs. The AU PLANELM serves as the strategic-level whilst the RECs/RMs PLANELMs serves at the operational level. RECs/RMs PLANELMs also serve as strategic level for operations they mandate, and in this instance, the AU PLANELM provides strategic support to the mandating REC/RM. In broad terms the PLANELMs are responsible for the management of pre-deployment, deployment and post deployment processes for the ASF. Although significant steps have been taken to ensure multidimensional, well-resourced and effective PLANELMs, progress across the AU and regions has been mostly mixed and uneven. It is generally recognized that more work and emphasis should be placed on ensuring appropriate structures for the PLANELMs, which should also be staffed with highly skilled and capable planners. The AU and regional PLANELMs should ensure they possess the full suite of policy guidance and Standard Operating Procedures that will inform and guide their efforts. There is need to also ensure greater collaboration and communication between the AU and the Regional PLANELMs. In this regard, the AU will be required to play a stronger role in terms of leadership and guidance on the ASF. This element has been notably challenging to date.

 The specific objective 2 is therefore to enhance the capacities of planning elements as well as to ensure they possess the required systems, processes and policies to adequately plan, deploy, manage, sustain and liquidate peace support operations.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 2 indicators

- Existence of adequate human resources capacity within the planning elements
- Existence of planning and deployment guidelines, policies and procedures aligned to current realities and developments
- Evidence of formal approval of guidelines, policies and procedures
- Evidence that PSO planners (at the AU and REC/RM levels) are well oriented and knowledgeable of the guidelines, policies and procedures and are accordingly able to apply these in planning for operations
- Domestication of ASF guidelines, policies and procedures by the RECs/RMs and Member States at the regional and Member States levels respectively
- Evidence that the AU and RECs/RMs systematically apply guidance, policies and procedures in planning, deployment, management, sustainment and liquidation of PSOs
- Evidence of the allocation of the required resources to the planning elements
- Evidence of increased PSO efficiency

The main set of strategies/activities envisaged for the fulfilment of this objectives include individual and joint assessments of the AU and RECs/RMs to confirm critical gaps (policies, Standard Operation Procedures, staffing, expert/niche capacities etc.) that need to be addressed, and recommendations and plans to address these gaps. Steps will also be taken to review the Aide Memoire on planning for ASF operations and this aide memoire should receive full support and endorsement by the AU and RECs/RMs. The latter should be directed to domesticate the planning guidance as relevant. There should also be activities to ensure improved staffing (qualitative and quantitative) of the PLANELMs and such a process should include a skills audit and assessment; training and recruitment. Emphasis should also be placed on further developing the planning and management capacity of the various planners at the continental and regional PLANELMs.

2.3 Mission support systems and mechanisms

The development of effective mission support strategies, systems and mechanisms which can underpin the rapid deployment of peace support operations to the field, and which can ensure that these operations can be sustained for the duration of deployment, are critical for the conduct of African peace support operations.

The specific objective 3 is therefore to establish critical mission support systems and mechanisms as well as robust administrative and logistics policies and processes for deployment, management, sustenance and liquidation of operations.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 3 indicators

- Establishment and operationalisation of the ASF Continental Logistics Base to facilitate mission start-up
- Establishment of an AU and RECs/RMs administrative and logistics support system, mechanism, process and framework for ASF operations
- Existence of formal agreements between AU and its partners on administrative and logistics support mechanisms for AU PSO
- Evidence of joint assessments between the AU, RECs/RMs and other partners on strategic lift capabilities on the continent, including continental movement coordination and facilitation
- Existence of formal agreements concluded between AU and its partners on support for AU PSO strategic lift capabilities and continental movement coordination and facilitation
- Existence of formal agreements concluded between AU and Member States strategic lift capabilities on support for AU PSO
- Existence of formal agreements concluded between AU and its partners on support for AU PSO strategic lift capabilities and continental movement coordination and facilitation
- Establishment and operationalisation of the ASF Continental C3IS architecture and system
- Establishment and operationalisation of the ASF Continental and Regional Movement Control Centres (CMCC) and (RMCC) respectively

2.4 Capacities and capabilities pledged/on standby

The demand for skilled and trained personnel for the conduct of peace support operations continues to grow. In this regard, the AU and the RECs/RMs have invested in the development of the African Standby Capacity (ASC), a continental roster that can be utilized to support the recruitment and deployment needs for African peace support operations. As the roster has been developed and is in place, it now needs to be populated with personnel, and utilized to service recruitment needs for operations.

2 The specific objective 4 is therefore to ensure the efficiency of the ASF human resource management.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 4 indicators

- Existence of harmonised training standards and directives
- Existence of training evaluation, assessment, certification, verification systems
- Evidence of adequate capacity by training centres and institutions to support AU in facilitating required and targeted training processes using AU harmonised training standards in line with Annual ASF Training directives
- Continuation of the Training Centres Programme to facilitate support to training institutions to deliver and conduct training for the AU and ASF
- Evidence that the ASF has sufficiently qualified and skilled capacities and capabilities (military, police and civilian) pledged/on standby and on the ASC Roster
- Evidence of the promotion and utilisation of the ASC roster as a recruitment tool and approved human resource policy frameworks and field operations procedures that facilitate rapid deployment and management of field personnel
- Evidence and utilisation of adequate (civilian) recruitment/deployment policies and processes for field missions
- Evidence of training and rostering linkages to facilitate rapid deployment of qualified, experienced and well trained personnel pledged for ASF operations

2.5 Capacity to plan, deploy, manage, support and monitor mediation interventions

Within the context of the AU, the Chairperson normally appoints Special Envoys and Special Representatives to conduct structured mediation processes. Similarly, the RECs/RMs also engage in mediation, often in partnership with the AU and have their own mandates and structures for peace-making. The 2014 Assessment noted how this form of peace-making is a specialized endeavour requiring a high level of expertise and professional support.

There are a number of key challenges at present: the absence of a professionalised approach to mediation; the absence of sustained professional support to mediators at the AU and the RECs; and, existing structures and processes are inadequate for rapid deployment of mediation and preventive diplomacy interventions, including flexible funding.

2 The specific objective 5 is therefore to enhance the capacity of the AU and the RECs/RMs to plan, deploy, manage, support and monitor mediation interventions.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 5 indicators

- Evidence of efficient mediation interventions
- Evidence of operationalization of MSUs) at the AU and the RECs/RMs
- Evidence and documentation of the use of the guidance contained in the 2012 SOPs for Mediation Support (note that these have clear guidance on: appointing and hiring processes for lead mediator; decision to deploy a mediator; creating a mediation roster; developing mediation mandates; creating an AU mediation team (needed expertise and capacity, core team members, resource persons); mediator pre-deployment briefings; design of mediation strategies; funding, etc.)
- Evidence and documentation of the use of the KMF for Mediation (lessons learned, etc.)
- Evidence of reviews and evaluations of concluded AU and RECs/RMs mediations
- Evidence of harmonization of national mechanisms with RECs

The main strategies/activities envisaged to reach this objective centre on the need to equip the AU, RECs/RMs and national level actors involved in mediation with relevant capacities for effective mediation interventions. Indeed, these strategies/activities are designed to strengthen the AU and RECs' capacity to design, plan, deploy, manage and monitor preventive diplomacy and mediation interventions. These strategies include three key dimensions: (i) the full operationalization of existing policies and processes relating to mediation at both AU and the RECs/RMs; (ii) the creation of MSUs at the AU and the RECs with the aim of establishing track I and track II mediation structures and coordinate technical expertise for effective professional support to peace processes; (iii) capacity building trainings and retreats for the envoys and mediators and create inter-face between the AU and RECs; (iv) strengthening regional mediation capacity building upon national institutional and normative frameworks. Consequently, implementing the 2012 SOPs for Mediation Support and the Knowledge Management Framework for Mediation Processes, as well as finalizing the PSD Roster, will strengthen the process of appointment, pre-deployment preparation and start-up phase of AU mediation activities, including lessons learned and monitoring and evaluation of mediation interventions. Finalising consultations for (and launching) MSUs at both AU and the RECs/RMs, including developing the concept for an 'Operational Support Team' at the AU are key areas of intervention for the strengthening of mediation capacity in the period of this roadmap. Finally, this objective requires that considerable focus be placed on targeted training to mediators and special envoys – training which is proposed to stem from the conduct of a needs assessment survey.

2.6 Coordination on mediation interventions

Collaboration and coordination between different actors engaged in mediation is a critical factor in the success of mediation processes. This is particularly the case in the African continent where a significant number of actors, ranging from States and individuals to organisations such as the UN, the AU and the RECs have become involved in mediation in one form or another. In the case of the AU and the RECs, whether through nominated Special Representatives, Envoys, Chief Mediators, or through the collective efforts of panels of eminent personalities such as the AU Panel of the Wise and similar mechanisms at sub-regional level (including ECOWAS' Council of the Wise; COMESA's Committee of Elders and SADC's Panel of Elders), High Level Implementation Panels (Sudan for example) and International Contact Groups, demonstrate that these organisations have assumed, and will continue to play key roles in peace-making, including preventive diplomacy (fact-finding, good offices, conciliation and confidence-building), facilitation and mediation efforts. These developments have taken place in an increasingly complex international mediation environment, where often multi-party mediation has become the norm. Within the context of mediation interventions, regular consultations should be held with the RECs/RMs, which will take, within the framework of APSA, the necessary initiatives in their respective region and initiate mediations to conduct structured peace process jointly with the AU or on their own, as decided at the PSC retreat in Abuja in 2015. Yet, at present, collaboration and coordination are mostly done in an ad-hoc basis, as there is an absence of mechanisms and procedures for ensuring coordination and cooperation between the AU, RECs/RMs and the UN in mediation and preventive diplomacy initiatives. There is a need for enhanced consultation and coordination between the AU and the relevant RECs/RMs regarding decisions on, and conduct of mediation initiatives.

The specific objective 6 is therefore to enhance coordination between the AU, the RECs/RMs and the UN on mediation interventions.

Priority 2 Specific Objective 6 indicators

- Examples of coordinated mediation interventions by AU, RECs/RMs and UN
- Evidence of information-sharing and joint decision-making between AU and RECs/RMs
- Evidence of joint mediation endeavours
- Evidence of joint analysis and assessment between AU and RECs/RMs
- Forum of AU/REC/RMs mediation focal points

In order to ensure enhanced coordination between the AU, RECs/RMs and the UN on mediation to take place, a number of strategies and activities are proposed. These include, with regard to AU-REC relations on mediation: the development and implementation of AU/RECs/RMs Mediation Guidelines; increased frequency of joint missions and international contact groups leading to joint mediations (where appropriate); information sharing and deepened support to the RECs with regards to the professionalization and support to mediation. The AU and the RECs/RMs may also consider the creation of the Forum of AU/RECs/RMs focal points. With regards to the crucial area of coordination and collaboration with the UN, activities include the adoption and implementation of the AU/UN Mediation Guidelines; information sharing; collaboration through technical support and exchanges of experiences; and, strengthening the alignment of UN/AU mediation guidelines.

3 Strategic Priority 3: Post-Conflict Reconstruction and Peace Building

Post-conflict reconstruction, development and comprehensive peace building efforts are closely linked to all other elements of the APSA and central for their success. The recent relapses of several post-conflict countries into violence and instability highlight the challenge, and therefore, the imperative for post-conflict reconstruction and development in Africa, as well as the need for more concerted action in consolidating peace in countries emerging from conflict. Drawing the lessons from past experience in rebuilding countries emerging from conflict, the AU Assembly adopted, in 2006, a PCRD Policy Framework, as a guide for the development of comprehensive policies and strategies to consolidate peace and pave the way for growth and sustainable development in countries emerging from conflict. The Policy highlights six indicative elements of PCRD; namely security; humanitarian/emergency assistance; socio-economic reconstruction and development; political governance and transition; human rights, justice and reconciliation; and gender.

The objective for the strategic priority 3 of the roadmap is to contribute to effective, coordinated and timely support to post-conflict Member States and communities emerging from conflict.

Priority 3 Strategic Objective Indicators

- PCRD interventions and support to Member States are timely and based on a systematic assessment of post-conflict needs
- Evidence of joint PCRD programming, including formulation of common objectives, between AUC departments, between AUC and RECs/RMs, between RECs/RMs and RECs/RMs and between AUC and Member States as well as RECs/RMs and Member States
- Evidence of PCRD initiatives in post-conflict Member States that are based on continental or regional PCRD policies and/or strategies
- Evidence of enhanced capacities of AU and RECs to provide and coordinate support to post-conflict Member States, based on policies and strategies
- Evidence of financial and in-kind support mobilised by AU/RECs and channelled to post-conflict Member States
- Evidence of AU and RECs PCRD/DDR/SSR expertise deployed within peace support operations

Strategic priority 3 has been broken down into seven specific objectives, each of them addressing one major obstacle to effective response strategies. They are presented in the following sections.

3.1 PCRD Mechanisms and regional policies

The AU PCRD Policy Framework of 2006 has identified institutional mechanisms that are to be implemented by AU and RECs in order to assist post-conflict Member States in their reconstruction efforts. While AU and RECs made considerable process, some of the mechanisms are not yet in place or not yet fully operational. The six pillars of PCRD are defined broadly in the policy framework, and a clear definition and operational guidelines on each of the pillars are missing. Further, the PCRD policy framework sees a need for regional guidelines for the implementation of PCRD efforts, which supports the harmonisation of PCRD policies on national level. Some RECs played a leading role in developing regional PCRDR policy frameworks, but lack implementation capacities. Other regions strive to develop regional PCRDR policy frameworks within the timeframe of the roadmap.

Specific objective 1 is to ensure that PCRDR mechanisms at the level of AUC, REC/RM and post-conflict countries as well as PCRDR policies are in place and operational, in line with the six pillars of the PCRDR policy framework.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 1 indicators

- Evidence that AUC and RECs/RMs have the mechanisms in place according to their mandate given by their respective policy organs
- Evidence of regional PCRDR policies in place in all regions, and harmonised with the continental PCRDR policy framework

Three main strategies have been identified in order to achieve the specific objective. The first one relates to the six pillars (indicative elements) of the PCRDR policy framework: each of the pillars will be clearly defined, and operational guidelines or similar strategic documents will be developed. The second strategy consists of the establishment of PCRDR mechanisms at different levels. A Multidimensional Committee on PCRDR will be established in order to interact with international actors on the continent on PCRDR. A PSC Standing Committee is to be established in order to monitor actors and provide support to affected countries. Regular briefing sessions of the PSC will assure the political oversight and support to PCRDR efforts. On national level, post-conflict Member States are to be supported in the establishment of ministerial committees on PCRDR. An interdepartmental taskforce at AU level, involving RECs through their Liaison Offices, will be established and will meet regularly, in order to foster harmonisation and synergies. The third strategy relates to the development and implementation of regional PCRDR policies and strategies. The PCRDR policy framework will be adapted to region specific situations, and guidelines will be developed accordingly. Member states of the regions will be closely involved in the process, and RECs will cooperate with AU and align their policy frameworks and strategies.

3.2 PCRDR responds to specific needs in different conflict phases

The high degree of relapse into violence of post-conflict countries, as well as the numerous protracted crises on the continent, indicate the need for an adequate response of PCRDR measures to different needs in the conflict cycle. This is particularly relevant for the stabilization and early recovery phase during or directly following peace support operations. If not holistically conceptualised, PSOs risk leaving a gap in support to the local communities, which needs to be filled by early recovery and humanitarian interventions, closely linked to reconstruction and development measures. Despite efforts of AU and RECs to closely link PSOs and post-conflict efforts, there is a lack of conceptual clarity on the phase of stabilization and early recovery, as well as on the role of conflict preventive measures in peace building. Additionally, there is a need for closer cooperation between all actors responsible for interventions in post-conflict Member States.

Specific objective 2 is to ensure that PCRD interventions are responding to specific needs in different conflict phases.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 2 indicators

- Evidence that PCRD programmes and strategies are informed by joint analysis on the structural causes of conflict and include strategies and activities for conflict prevention
- Evidence of (approved) strategic documents which point out roles and responsibilities of AU and REC actors in the stabilization phase
- Evidence of increased joint planning and close cooperation and coordination of all actors/divisions within AU/RECs which are engaged in post-conflict countries and situations
- Evidence that the PCRD policy is leveraged in support of stabilization and early recovery efforts
- Evidence of early recovery instruments such as Quick Impact Projects (QIPs) and peace strengthening projects being utilised in PSOs or its immediate aftermath as instruments in support of stabilization and early recovery efforts

Three sets of strategies have been developed in order to address the causes of the problem and achieve the specific objective. The first one relates to the development of a holistic strategy of interventions in the stabilization and early recovery phase. PSOs will be assisted in the implementation of QIPs, and in the development of their capacities to timely implement or liaise with the relevant actors implementing PCRD, stabilization and early recovery measures. The second strategy relates to the development of a holistic concept on the interaction between peace building and conflict prevention, involving governance and state building aspects. Here, it is important to engage with all relevant actors on AU and REC level, map out interventions and develop guidelines for conflict sensitivity and Do No Harm, taking into account long-term structural causes of conflict. The third strategy consists of setting up a mechanism for coordination, joint planning and regular exchange on interventions in post-conflict Member States (interdepartmental taskforce), involving all relevant actors, such as the AUC as well as RECs through their Liaison Offices.

3.3 AU and RECs coordination function of PCRD

The effective support to Member States in PCRD requires close collaboration between all relevant actors involved. Besides the AU, RECs and the respective Member States (including relevant ministries and departments), the UN and other international organisations, post-conflict reconstruction and peace building efforts also involve civil society organisations at local, national, regional and continental levels. At the moment, there is still lack of regular and systematic exchange between the AU and the RECs as these actors. The AU PCRD Policy Framework of 2006 provides guidance on roles and responsibilities of AU and RECs as well as on mechanisms to be established for the effective implementation of PCRD measures on member state level. There is, anyhow, still a lack of clear definitions of roles and responsibilities of the AU and the RECs, as well as lack of harmonised approaches and regular exchange. Finally, the AU and the RECs participation and coordination role in other (often international) mechanisms related to post-conflict reconstruction of the continent needs to be enhanced.

3 Specific objective 3 is to ensure that the AU and the RECs exercise their coordination function effectively and comprehensively.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 3 indicators

- Planning, monitoring and reporting processes on PCRDR between AUC and RECs/RMs are harmonized
- AUC and RECs/RMs take up a relevant role in international PCRDR processes, such as the New Deal and Post-Conflict reconstruction frameworks in Member States
- Implementation strategy for PCRDR policy framework clearly highlights different roles and responsibilities of the various stakeholders

The strategies developed in order to address the causes of the problem are threefold: the first one consists of organising regular systematic exchange between AU and RECs on PCRDR strategies and interventions, through dialogue sessions as well as through joint stakeholder work plans and other strategic documents. Secondly, regular systematic exchange is to be established between AU/RECs and external actors in the field of PCRDR (e.g. through regular joint stakeholder meetings). This includes the UN Peace Building Commission as well as relevant CSOs. Also joint stakeholder monitoring and evaluation activities for PCRDR are envisaged. Finally, AUC and RECs identify and participate in relevant fora and exchange meetings in the field of PCRDR and peace building, e.g. in the New Deal for Fragile States process as well as in post-conflict needs assessment by international actors.

3.4 Resources for the implementation of PCRDR programmes

The PCRDR Policy Framework (2006) sees the mobilization of resources for PCRDR as a major responsibility of the AU. At the 19th Ordinary Session of the policy organs of the African Union, in July 2012, the African Solidarity Initiative (ASI) was launched as an AU-led process for mobilizing support from within the continent for countries emerging from conflict. A Decision – Assembly/AU/Dec.425 (XIX) – on the ASI, was adopted, requesting the AUC, in close collaboration with the countries concerned and all other Member States, RECs, and other relevant African institutions, to roll-out a full implementation plan, and to mobilize in-kind, capacity building, as well as financial contributions, to support post-conflict reconstruction activities and efforts in the African countries concerned.

3 Specific objective 4 is to ensure that the capacities of the AU and the RECs to generate (financial and in-kind) resources for post-conflict countries and communities are enhanced.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 4 indicators

- Resources being pledged and delivered by AU Member States in support to PCRDR countries
- In kind and financial support given to Member States, CSOs etc. through AUC and RECs/RMs
- Amount of funds being channelled through the PCRDR funding windows
- Number of Member States/AUC/RECs/RMs co-financing arrangements in support of PCRDR efforts in countries emerging from conflict

In order to achieve the specific objective, the following four strategies are envisioned: the African Solidarity Initiative is to be operationalized through the implementation of its resource mobilization strategy, the development of strategies and mechanisms to operationalize all aspects of the ASI (including identifying post-conflict needs, channelling funds, reporting and monitoring, etc.). A mechanism is to be developed in the frame of the ASI to support Member States to engage with each other directly on addressing post-conflict needs, and the necessary capacities are to be established at the level of the AUC in order to keep the ASI operational. Second, a funding window is to be established to channel funds from AU to RECs and Member States for PCRD interventions, especially relating to regional and cross-border interventions. Third, needs of post-conflict Member States are to be assessed regularly and systematically, and linked to resource mobilization efforts. Finally, round tables and pledging conferences are organised regularly to generate additional support for post-conflict Member States.

3.5 Capacities for support to post-conflict Member States

Peace building is a complex and extensive process that involves addressing the root causes of conflicts, as well as creating social cohesion and establishing peaceful mechanisms and institutions for all members of society. It touches upon all aspects of nation building, humanitarian interventions in the immediate aftermath of conflict as well as socio-economic development; it includes rule of law and the reform of the security sector, constitutionalism and democracy, good governance, human rights aspects as well as reconciliation. It is therefore paramount that these processes are shaped on national and local level, and that national and local actors receive the support needed from regional and continental institutions, namely AU and RECs, as per their mandate in the PCRD Policy Framework.

Specific objective 5 is to ensure that the capacities of AU and RECs to respond to post-conflict Member States needs through effective coordination and development of PCRD interventions/Member States support are enhanced.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 5 indicators

- Number of Member States which are supported in the implementing of policies or strategies which are related to PCRD (security, transitional justice and human rights, socio-economic reconstruction and development, humanitarian/emergency aid, gender as well as governance and democracy aspects)
- Number of PCRD assistance requests addressed by AU and REC
- Evidence that support to member state is based on post-conflict needs assessment

Strategies to address this specific objective are threefold. AU and REC's Liaison Offices and field offices, and post-conflict Member States need to be assessed and supported in enhancing their capacities in the field of PCRD through training and other capacity development measures. It will further need to be assured that the review of AULOs mandates keeps in mind the role they can play in PCRD. Coherence is also to be enhanced between activities of AULOs/field offices and AU/REC strategies for PCRD. Second, capacities of AU and RECs to assist Member States in the development and monitoring of tailor made interventions will be enhanced through the development of implementation strategies for all indicative elements of the PCRD policy framework, the support to Member States in the development of national policies and strategies as well as in the implementation of national programmes. Third, an expert database/roster is to be developed based on a mapping of expertise needed in peace building processes, covering all indicative elements of the PCRD policy. A mechanism will ensure that experts are being deployed to post-conflict Member States, AULOs or PSOs according to the needs on the ground.

3.6 Capacities to implement the SSR policy framework

The reform of the security sector is often a complex and extremely challenging, but paramount process for post-conflict reconstruction of Member States. The AU Assembly through Assembly/AU/Dec.177 (X) in 2008 asked the AUC to develop a comprehensive AU Policy Framework on SSR, within the context of the Policy Framework on PCRD. The SSR Policy Framework was consequently developed and adopted in 2013. The AUC as well as RECs therefore need to enhance their capacities in order to effectively fill out the role given to them in the SSR policy framework. This includes the development of regional SSR policies as well as the enhanced capacities to assist Member States in their SSR efforts, among others. SSR interventions need to be closely coordinated with and linked to all other elements of PCRD, including governance and reconciliation aspects.

Specific objective 6 is to ensure that AU and RECs have the capacities to effectively fulfil their role as defined in the SSR policy framework.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 6 indicators

- Number of Member States supported in implementing SSR policy
- Evidence of SSR assistance requests addressed by AU and RECs
- SSR processes supported by AU/RECs are gender sensitive
- Number of required civilian SSR experts provided in support of AU peace support operations

There are five strategies to address the specific objective, all rooted in the mandate given to AU and RECs by the SSR policy framework. First, regional SSR policies are to be developed and to be used as an instrument for standardization and harmonisation of national SSR policies. AU and RECs will collaborate not only with each other, but also with Member States on aligning the policies and developing mechanisms for monitoring the implementation of SSR policies on national level. Second, capacities of AU and RECs will be developed through several interventions in order to assist Member States in the development and implementation of national SSR policies. They include the development and implementation of SSR assessment tools, guidance notes, mobilisation of funds, conduction of SSR trainings as well as financial support to Member States. Third, AU and RECs will, through dialogue forums and other mechanisms, bring together relevant SSR stakeholders on the continent. Forth, a continental code of conduct for armed forces involved in African peace support operations will be developed in line with the AU Operational Guidance Note (OGN) on the Development of Codes of Conduct for African Security Institutions. Finally, an expert roster will be developed in order to assure that SSR experts are ready to be deployed in PSOs and to Member States on a short-term notice.

3.7 Capacities of the AUC and the RECs/RMs to respond to DDR challenges

The Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration (DDR) of ex-combatants is a complex process, with political, humanitarian and socio-economic dimensions. These dimensions are integral to promoting peace, security and stability in Africa and spans across the initial stabilization of war-torn societies and into their long-term development through laying of groundwork for safeguarding and sustaining of communities in which these individuals return, while building national capacity for long-term peace, security and development.

Specific objective 7 is to ensure enhanced capacities of AUC, RECs/RMs and Member States to meet the DDR challenges in post-conflict African countries.

Priority 3 Specific Objective 7 indicators

- Number of DDR Assistance requests addressed by AU and RECs
- Number of AU and RECs DDR expertise deployed within peace support operations
- Number of DDR documents developed and continental dialogue platforms facilitated
- Evidence of required DDR expertise provided in support to AU peace support operations

There are five main strategies envisaged to reach this objective. The first strategy is geared towards mainstreaming gender through supporting DDR-related gender-sensitive activities that are also responsive to the needs of children and other marginalised and vulnerable groups. The second strategy consists of supporting DDR capacity building for Member States, RECs/ RMs and AU peace support operations, including through the deployment of AU sponsored DDR experts. The third strategy entails the development of DDR policy documents, SOPs and training material to harmonize continental language on DDR. The fourth strategy involves convening a number of DDR forums in support of regional and continental dialogue on DDR. Finally, Member States will be assisted in fundraising for national DDR activities and in monitoring and evaluation mechanisms for the DDR processes they are engaged in. These strategies will be implemented in close collaboration with the United Nations and other international partners and organisations.

4 Strategic Priority 4: Strategic Security Issues

Based on a broad notion of human security the African continent will be faced with a series of strategic security challenges in the next five years. Problems identified include inadequate and disjointed efforts to address illicit flows of Small Arms and Light Weapons (SALW); mines, explosives and improvised explosive devices (IEDs); terrorism; and organized crime.

The objective for the strategic priority 4 of the roadmap is to contribute to enhancing the timeliness and effectiveness of the response to strategic security challenges by all stakeholders.

Priority 4 Strategic Objective Indicators

- Evidence of effective policies, programs and capacities being developed and implemented to address transnational threats.
- Evidence of Member States incorporating/implementing gender dimensions in SALW control programmes including national plans, national commissions, legislation, data on arms and violence against women and vulnerable groups

The strategic priority 4 has been broken down into seven specific objectives, each of them addressing one major obstacle to effective response strategies. They are presented in the following sections.

4.1 Illicit flow of SALW

The APSA assessment has drawn attention to the fact that the effectiveness in which illicit flows of SALW are currently addressed is limited. This is due to a number of circumstances, amongst others: non-domestication of legal and policy instruments to address the illicit flow of weapons; weak operational capacities of Member States to prevent, detect and respond to illicit SALW trafficking and circulation; insufficient updated research, data and analysis on trafficking and circulation of illicit SALW to support evidence-based programming; the lack of a comprehensive monitoring and evaluation capacity with regards to illicit SALW control interventions; the absence of an effective law enforcement cooperation and coordination mechanism with a continental and regional scope to facilitate inter-state cooperation; as well as limited capacities of PSOs in managing and accounting for weapons and implementing illicit SALW control interventions.

Specific objective 1 is to effectively implement integrated, comprehensive and sustainable policies and measures to address the illicit flow of SALW in line with international instruments and best practices.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 1 indicators

- Evidence of Member States marking arms and maintaining records
- Evidence of Member States cooperating in arms tracing and seizure
- Evidence of Member States securing arms stockpiles
- Evidence of Member States adopting legislation and measures to regulate arms ownership and transfers, and criminalizing illicit activities
- Evidence of Member States' ownership and financial contribution to national policies and programmes

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are five-fold. First, bi-annual Steering Committee meetings to strengthen coordination initiatives, financial and technical resources for Member States will be mobilized and direct technical support given to Member States. It is expected that this will help effectively domesticating legal instruments to address the illicit flow of weapons. Second, operational support to priority interventions in SALW control (training, purchase of equipment, development of guidelines, etc.) will be provided. It is assumed that this will build operational capacities in Member States. Third, expert studies in collaboration with RECs/RMs and research groups will be commissioned, reports and data from RECs, RMs and research groups compiled, findings validated, suggested strategic responses drafted, and methods of evidence based planning employed. It is expected that these measures will make comprehensive knowledge on the flow of illicit SALW on the continent available. Fourth, basic guidelines for the integration of evaluations and assessments in project design by AU/RECs/RMs will be developed and AU/RECs/RMs and partners will support the compilation of biennial reports on SALW control. The expected result of these activities is that monitoring capacity in SALW control has been established. Finally, technical support will be given to PSOs in developing SOPs and guidelines to manage and account for weapons, and also in streamlining SALW control into ConOps and mission mandate. In addition, training and operational support will be provided to PSOs in implementing mandated SALW control interventions. The expected outcome of these activities is to enhance PSOs' capacity to manage weapon holdings and stockpiles and implement SALW control interventions is built.

4.2 Mine action and counter-IED/explosives management

The inability of Member States to fully meet their obligations under the Anti-Personnel landmines Convention and the Convention on Cluster Munitions has been identified as a challenge. This is due to five reasons: The limited technical and operational capacities of Member States to implement mine action programmes; a lack of integrated and sustainable policies and programmes to support victims of landmines and unexploded ordnance (UXO); the absence of both inter-state modalities and agreements to clear mines in border areas as well as regional mechanisms/platforms to mobilize resources and foster south-south cooperation; and the limited expertise, financial and operational resources at the level of PSOs to deal with the threat of IEDs and UXOs.

Specific objective 2 is to implement mine action and counter-IED/explosives management programmes by affected Member States and PSOs in an integrated and sustainable manner.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 2 indicators

- Evidence of Member States progress towards their clearance deadlines/targets
- Evidence of victims' assistance policies and programmes
- Evidence of participation of women in national mine action
- Conclusion of agreements and development of cross-border demining projects
- Resources mobilized through the South-South cooperation platform
- Percentage of IEDs detected and disposed by AU-PSOs

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective include collaboration with Mine Action centres to deliver training to member state practitioners. In addition demining and training equipment will be provided to affected Member States and trainings on various Mine Action components (awareness, program management, landmine impact surveys, gender mainstreaming, etc.) delivered. The expected result of these measures is that technical and operational capacities of Member States to implement mine action programs are built. In addition, technical support and training to Member States on developing and sustaining victims' assistance programmes will be provided and guidelines and best practices on victims' assistance developed and disseminated. The expected outcome is the integration of victim assistance programmes into national policies.

Strategies/activities will also include: the conclusion of interstate agreements to survey and demine border regions under the auspices of the AU Border Programme (AUBP) will be facilitated with a view to reach agreement reached and develop projects to demine border areas; the development of south-south cooperation strategy and implementation modalities and a biennial donor conferences and south-south cooperation platforms convened. The expected result of this is that the South-South Cooperation platform and continental resource mobilization modalities will be established.

Finally, technical support to PSOs in streamlining counter-IED and explosives management in the development of Concepts of Operations (ConOps) will be provided and technical and operational support to capacitate PSOs in the area of counter-IED and explosives management mobilized. The expected outcome of these activities is that counter-IED expertise and equipment will be integrated into PSO mandates and support packages.

4.3 Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) disarmament and non-proliferation

Implementing the international regimes on WMD disarmament and non-proliferation has been identified as being little effective. This is attributed to the non-domestication of legal and policy instruments against WMD; weak operational and institutional capacities of Members States; and insufficient research and data on the threat and risks of illicit chemical, biological and nuclear proliferation and trafficking.

The specific objective 3 is to effectively implement instruments and policies to address WMD disarmament and non-proliferation.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 3 indicators

- Technical assistance and training provided to Member States to domesticate legal and operational aspects of the international instruments against WMD
- Member States establishing/designating the required implementation mechanisms/bodies

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are two-fold. First, there will be collaboration with the international bodies to sensitize states, identify gaps and assistance will be channelled to Member States. In addition, technical and operational resources for Member States from donors and international partners will be mobilized. The expected result of these activities is that legal instruments to address WMD disarmament and non-proliferation will be effectively domesticated. Furthermore, expert studies will be commissioned and reports and data available with the international bodies compiled with a view to make available comprehensive knowledge on the risks and threats of chemical, biological and nuclear proliferation and trafficking.

4.4 Counter-terrorism measures

So far, counter-terrorism efforts on the African continent have been mainly ineffective and unsustainable. There are a number of reasons for this, including the absence of an effective rule of law-based criminal justice response to terrorism; poor capacities and training of law enforcement agencies to implement preventive and response measures to terrorist acts; the lack of integrated approaches to prevent radicalization, address the conditions conducive to the spread of terrorism and engage civil society; poor coordination and collaboration among states in policy, legislative and operational counter-terrorism measures; the absence of rigorous and updated operational research and analysis that informs policy development and response measures; and also the non-existence of an inclusive continental platform to coordinate counter-terrorism (CT) action among Member States, RECs, donors and assistance providers.

The specific objective 4 is to make national and regional counter-terrorism measures effective in preventing and responding to terrorist acts.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 4 indicators

- Evidence of MS authorities foiling terrorist acts
- Evidence of terrorism cases investigated and tried in courts
- Evidence of CSO involvement in/support for national counter-terrorism efforts
- Evidence of inter-state cooperation in terrorism investigations and trials
- Evidence of Member States sharing and utilizing intelligence, reports and studies on terrorism and counter-terrorism
- Evidence of effective support and coordination provided to Member States by donors, partners and RECs
- Evidence of de-radicalization initiatives by RECs
- Evidence of programmes implemented by counter violent extremism (CVE) initiatives

The strategies adopted to address the causes of the problem and reach the objective are six-fold. First, legislative support will be provided to Member States in ratifying and domesticating regional and international anti-crime and counter-terrorism instruments; likewise training and capacity building support will be given to judges, prosecutors and law enforcement agencies in integrating and implementing essential components; in addition best practices will be exchanged on criminal justice responses to terrorism, rule of law and human rights (criminalization, investigations, cooperation, detention, trials, corrections, etc.). These activities should contribute to both the effective domestication of legal instruments to address counter-terrorism and the strengthening of criminal justice systems.

Second, training and support will be provided to law enforcement agencies in preventing and responding to terrorist acts (information and intelligence gathering and analysis, protection of sensitive sites, investigations and evidence gathering and protection, countering IEDs, anti-money laundering and countering terrorism financing, recruitment and internet abuse, emergency response, human rights safeguards, etc.). The expected result is that capacities of law enforcement agencies to implement preventive and response measures to terrorist acts are built.

Third, consultative and inclusive platforms will be provided to develop context-specific approaches and programmes to prevent radicalization and recruitment and address conditions conducive to the spread of terrorism and preventing radicalization. In addition, early recovery, counter-radicalization and community engagement components will be streamlined into regional cooperative counter-terrorism operations. The expected outcome is that national and regional integrated strategies to prevent radicalization, addressing the conditions conducive to the spread of terrorism, and civil society engagement is developed and implemented.

Fourth, consultation and cooperation platforms for intelligence sharing and coordination and harmonization of counter-terrorism efforts will be strengthened and sustained; political and operational support to the development of cooperative regional counter-terrorism operations and intelligence sharing mechanisms including within the framework of the Committee of Intelligence and Security Services of Africa (CISSA), the African Centre for the Study and Research on Terrorism (ACSRT) Focal Points and the Nouakchott and Djibouti Processes will be provided; the role of the PSC pursuant to the 2004 Protocol and the relevant communiqués will be operationalized; support to the harmonization of legislation and other inter-state modalities regarding extradition and arrest warrants will be given; and African Arrest Warrant against individuals accused of terrorist acts will be operationalized and implemented. The expected outcome of these measures is an enhanced judicial and operational cooperation among Member States and regions.

Fifth, periodic and thematic expert research and studies will be commissioned; Focal Points will be designated by Member States to the ACSRT and information will be shared regularly; Member States will submit their annual reports pursuant to the 2004 Protocol; counter-terrorism will be harmonized and integrated into CEWS; the ACSRT CT Situation Room will be operationalized; and an assessment and evaluation mission to Member States will be conducted. As a result comprehensive knowledge and analysis will be available on terrorist groups modus operandi, agendas and structures; recruitment and financing methods; and related trends.

Finally, an annual Consultative Counter-Terrorism Forum will be convened; the AU-RECs Steering Committee on Counter-terrorism and transnational organized crime (TOC) will be established; RECs will be supported to replicate the efforts at African Union levels; and sub-region cooperation/coordination centres at RECs levels will be established. It is expected that an effective coordination mechanism is established among Member States, RECs, donors and assistance providers in identifying and aligning priorities and allocation of resources.

4.5 Illicit Financial Flows

Implementation of the international instruments on anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT) is ineffective and incomplete. Due to a combination of factors that include inadequate capacity among institutions such as Financial Intelligence Unit (FIUs) and Law Enforcement Agencies (LEAs) that are undertrained, understaffed or lack a clear mandate and powers to enforce AML/CFT measures; and law awareness among financial and non-financial reporting entities; many jurisdictions have inadequate AML/CFT laws while others have implementation challenges. There is also inadequate inter-state cooperation on AML/CFT issues including on judicial, institutional and operational matters; the existence of regulatory and operational challenges to address AML/CFT in the informal sector and cash-based economy; inadequate regulatory measures to address the vulnerability of non-profit organizations to abuse by terrorists; and, finally, poor capacities and integrated approaches to address proceeds of criminal activities such as environmental crimes, trafficking and smuggling.

The specific objective 5 is to fully and effectively implement international legal instruments and recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and the High Level Panel on Illicit Financial Flows recommendations.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 5 indicators

- Evidence of Member States developing and enforcing national legislation and practices on AML/CFT
- Evidence of FIU and LEAs adequately capacitated to fulfil their mandate
- Evidence of preventive and response measures to deal with AML/CFT in the informal economy and charity establishments and other designated non-financial businesses and professions (DNFBPs)
- Evidence of effective policies and practices linking anti-environmental crime efforts to AML/CFT
- Evidence of increased suspicious transaction reports received by FIUs
- Evidence of increased awareness of AML/CFT among reporting entities

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are five-fold.

First, the delivery of technical and legislative support to Member States in establishing and strengthening FIUs, and developing/strengthening their mandate and operational modalities will be facilitated; and FIUs and financial establishments will be sensitised and trained in implementing FATF recommendations, the recommendations of the High Level Panel on Illicit Financial Flows and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. It is assumed that Financial Intelligence Unit (FIUs) are established, capacity is built and effective mandates are provided.

Second, regular forums/sessions to foster exchanges, common understanding and approaches to enhance inter-state cooperation will be facilitated; and joint trainings for Member States on international cooperation in judicial matters regarding AML/CFT will be conducted. This will lead to effective inter-state cooperation on AML/CFT issues, including on judicial, institutional and operational matters.

Third, operational guidance notes will be developed and best practices compiled to assist Member States address AML/CFT within the context of the informal sector and cross border transportations of currency. In addition, joint trainings and sensitisation exercises will be organized to address cash couriers and cross border cross-border transportations of currency also including other DNFBPs. It is expected that this will strongly support the implementation of effective regulatory and operational measures to address AML/CFT in the informal sector and cash-based economy.

Fourth, technical and legislative support will be provided to Member States in regulating operations of non-profit organizations, and non-profit organizations and CSOs will be trained on transparency and preventing abuse for terrorist financing purposes. It is expected that this will lead to the implementation of effective regulatory and transparency measures to prevent the abuse of non-profit organizations.

Fifth, LEAs such as police, the judiciary and office of the prosecutor, customs, authorities etc. will be sensitised and trained on investigation of AML/CFT crimes including capacity building in asset recovery.

Sixth, studies and research will be commissioned and supported to identify trends in terrorism financing and gaps in response measures; and the development of integrated and comprehensive approaches and policies will be assisted to address terrorism financing through environmental crimes, trafficking and smuggling. It is expected that these measures will lead to the development of effective policies and guidelines to address terrorist financing from environmental crimes, trafficking and smuggling.

4.6 Africa's Integrated Maritime Strategy (AIMS)

The African Union's maritime security policy is weakly integrated into APSA: This has mainly three reasons: the absence of a Plan of Action for the Operationalization of the 2050 AIM Strategy; a lack of effective mainstreaming of maritime security into CEWS; and the non-alignment of RECs strategies on maritime security to AIMS 2050.

The specific objective 6 is to fully integrate the 2050 Africa's Integrated Maritime Strategy (AIMS) into APSA.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 6 indicators

- Evidence of the AUC developing an implementation matrix and Member States adopting a Plan for the Operationalization of the 2050 AIMS
- Evidence of revised CEWS indicators and guidelines
- Evidence of RECs developing and adopting harmonized strategies on maritime security

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are three-fold. First, a Plan of Action for the Operationalization of the 2050 AIMS in accordance with AU Assembly Dec. 496 (XXII) will be developed and adopted – paving the way for the effective implementation of a Plan of Action for the Operationalization of the 2050 AIMS. Second, the CEWS Indicators' Module (data collection and monitoring) will be amended and the CEWS Handbook (2008) revised, with a view to effectively mainstreaming maritime security into CEWS. And third, regional workshops will be held to harmonize RECs strategies on maritime security. The expected effect will be that RECs strategies on maritime security are aligned to AIMS 2050.

4.7 AFRIPOL as coordination mechanism

Coordination in combating Transnational Organized Crime (TOC) has been limited due to 4 main reasons: a lack of effectively domesticating legal instruments to address TOC; weak legal codes to address TOC; a lack of information, analysis and response options for member states and RECs/RMs with regard to TOC; and insufficient knowledge about the nexus between TOC, terrorism and violent extremism. In addition a collective anti-cyber crime policy is missing due to 4 main reasons: a lack of effectively domesticating legal instruments to address cyber crime; non-tabling of the AUC Chairperson report on cyber security; the absence of national cyber security frameworks as well as the absence of REC and REC-to-REC agreements on mutual assistance in combating cyber crime. Moreover, Africa is faced with not only conventional security threats such as internal and interstate conflicts, but also non-conventional threats arising from a changing international environment, which include transnational organized crime and terrorism. It is in this context that AU Member States agreed to establish a mechanism for police cooperation, AFRIPOL, at the strategic, operational, and tactical levels. In pursuance of Executive Council Decision EX.CL/Dec.820 (XXV), adopted at its 25th Ordinary Session held in Malabo, Equatorial Guinea, from 20 to 24 June 2014, the Commission has facilitated the meeting of the Ad Hoc Committee on the operationalization of AFRIPOL on 2 July 2014 in Addis Ababa; on 2 October 2014 in Kampala, Uganda; from 18 – 19 March 2015 in Algiers, Algeria; and on 2 June 2015 in Addis Ababa. The Ad Hoc Committee will report its work and present the to the meeting of African Police Chiefs to be held in Algiers, Algeria from 13-14 December 2015 the drafts of the Statute, Structure, Program of Work and Action Plan for consideration.

The specific objective 7 is to effectively strengthen the cooperation and coordination in the combat of TOC and a continental anti-cyber crime policy is actively promoted.

Priority 4 Specific Objective 7 indicators

- Evidence of ratification and domestication of legal instruments on TOC and cyber crime in Member States
- Evidence of the establishment – in collaboration with AFRIPOL – of a regional TOC centre
- Evidence of Member States efficiently addressing the nexus between TOC and terrorism and violent extremism
- Evidence of Member States adopting cyber crime frameworks
- Evidence of increased REC-to-REC assistance in combating cyber crime

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are nine-fold. First, annual reports will be submitted by Member States to the AUC. Second, a mapping of the status quo will be organized and areas for follow-up activities identified. Third, AUC with AFRIPOL and regional police organisations will establish a centre to systematically provide Member States and RECs with information, analysis and response options for with regard to TOC; and guidelines for the establishment of national specialised TOC investigation units will be developed. Four, a workshop will be organized to explore the nexus between TOC and terrorism and violent extremism, on whose basis detailed policy recommendations will be developed. Five, the AU Convention of Cyber Security and Personal Data Protection in accordance with AU Executive Council Dec. 846 (XXV) will be ratified and domesticated. Six, an AUC Chairperson report on cyber security will be tabled which (1) describes the extend of the threat to peace and security in Africa, (2) maps national efforts of Member States to counter-act IT-based threats against peace and security, (3) documents some best practice and lessons learned, (4) follows up on the AU Assembly decision to harmonize national legislations through a convention on cyber security, (5) suggests coordinating activities by the AUC vis-à-vis the RECs, and (6) details a strategy of how to mobilize the support of international partners such as the UN or the EU in these efforts. Seven, regional workshops on the design of national cyber security frameworks in accordance with AU Executive Council Dec. 846 (XXV), §24 will be facilitated. Eight, an agreement on mutual assistance in cyber-crime agreements in accordance with AU Executive Council Dec. 846 (XXV) will be drafted, adopted and ratified. Finally, efforts will be undertaken to establish and make AFRIPOL effective.

5 Strategic Priority 5: Coordination and Partnerships

At policy level, the implementation of APSA shall be guided by the roadmap under the leadership of the AUC. RECs/RMs commit to harmonize respective strategies and priorities with the roadmap and ensure the roadmap informs their engagements. Following the harmonisation role of the AUC, the implementation of APSA is based on effective collaboration and coordination of several actors, including the AU, RECs/RMs, Member States, financial and technical partners and also CSOs, including academia and think tanks. Furthermore, for the effective operationalization of the required capacities for conflict prevention, management and resolution in each stakeholder institution, considerable intra-organisational development remains a priority. The full operationalization of APSA is therefore predicated upon collaboration and coordination (inter and intra institutional) as one of the priorities to be addressed with the utmost attention.

The objective for the strategic priority 5 of the roadmap is to contribute to enhanced effectiveness of coordination and partnership within the APSA framework.

Priority 5 Strategic Objective Indicators

- Evidence of regional peace and security strategies designed and implemented in line with the AU policy framework
- Evidence of common programming, including formulation of common objectives, between AUC departments and between AU and RECs/RMs
- Evidence of common positions on APSA framework between AU and RECs/RMs
- Evidence, documentation and joint analysis of the implementation of the subsidiarity principle in several operations in the field
- Evidence of lessons learned from the implementation of the subsidiarity principle (results and challenges) that are feeding new programming
- Evidence of implementation and monitoring of decisions the AUC has committed to
- Evidence of efficient use and possible mutualisation of human resources between the AUC and RECs/RMs
- Evidence of timely deployment of the Panel of the Wise from the AUC

Strategic priority 5 has been broken down into six specific objectives, each of them addressing one major obstacle to effective coordination. They are presented in the following sections.

5.1 Coordinating function of the PSC

The analysis of the previous roadmap highlighted the limited effectiveness of the coordinating function of the PSC with the RECs/RMs mechanisms (see PSC Protocol 2002). This limited effectiveness was due to three main reasons:

First, there were limited interactions between the AU-PSC and similar mechanisms within RECs/RMs. Second, there was a lack of common understanding of the principles of subsidiarity, complementarity and comparative advantage (what they mean and entail) between different actors. Finally, there was a lack of clear guidelines to make the interactions between PSC and RECs/RMs mechanisms fully operational.

Specific objective 1 is therefore to make the coordinating function of the PSC effective.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 1 indicators

- Evidence of decisions from PSC taking into account RECs/RMs inputs
- Evidence of common PSC-RECs/RMs positions
- Operation of joint AU-RECs/RMs Field Missions/Liaison Offices

The main strategies/activities envisaged in order to reach this objective are three-fold. The first one consists of allowing the participation of RECs/RMs in relevant PSC meetings in order to make sure that the interactions between the AU-PSC and similar mechanisms within RECs/RMs are in place. The second strategy consists of organizing a series of dialogue sessions between the AUC and RECs/RMs on the definition of subsidiarity (and/or of partnership) and between PSC and RECs/RMs on the nature of their necessary interactions. It is expected that these activities will lead to the development of two strategy documents (one that highlights guiding principles and expected results from using the subsidiarity principle, the second one being dedicated to highlighting principles and expected results from PSC – RECs/RMs interactions) and to clear agreements between the AUC, RECs/RMs and PSC to use these strategy documents as a basis for future interactions. Finally, dialogue sessions between PSC and RECs/RMs on the nature of RECs/RMs interactions with PSC will be organized. The expected outcome of this activity is the development of guidelines/policy document stipulating the nature of RECs/RMs interactions with PSC.

5.2 Intra- and inter-departmental collaboration/coordination

Evaluations and consultations between APSA stakeholders have highlighted the limited intra- and inter-departmental collaboration and coordination at AUC/RECs/RMs levels as a problem that required special attention. The analyses identified two main causes explaining the limited level of coordination: each department is characterized by weak horizontal linkages and the horizontal linkages between the various APSA components are also weak.

Specific objective 2 is therefore to reach an enhanced intra and inter-departmental collaboration and coordination at the level of the AUC and RECs/RMs.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 2 indicators

- Evidence of collaboration/coordination between PSD and other AUC Departments in different conflict phases (prevention, management, resolution and PCRD)
- Evidence of deepened collaboration and linkages between the various APSA components and the African Governance Architecture (AGA) both at the AU and REC level
- Evidence of joint APSA activities and programming between the PSD and other relevant Departments within the AUC

The main strategy consists of organising a series of information sharing and coordination meetings between different PSD divisions and units at the level of the AUC and of each REC/RM and to perform joint planning sessions. It is expected that once these strategies are implemented, the coordination mechanisms within various PSD divisions and units will be in place. The second strategy consists of institutionalizing the Inter-Departmental Task Force on Conflict Prevention (IDTFPCP) at technical and policy levels, in order to make sure that the horizontal linkages between the various departments are functioning.

5.3 MoU between the AU and the RECs/RMs

The third problem that needs to be addressed relates to the limited implementation of the MoU between the AUC and the RECs/RMs in the realization of APSA. This problem is due to: a lack of a clear and commonly shared understanding of the concepts of subsidiarity, complementarity and comparative advantage (what they mean and entail); a lack of a clear and commonly shared understanding of the concept of coordination (what it means and entails); policies/standard operation procedures between the AUC and the RECs/RMs are not harmonized; and, finally, there is no adequate monitoring system for the implementation of the MoU.

Specific objective 3 is therefore to ensure that the MoU between the AU and the RECs/RMs is implemented effectively.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 3 indicators

- Participation of AU and RECs/RMs Liaison Officers in all relevant statutory meetings of the AU and RECs/RMs
- Evidence of the fact that RECs/RMs Liaison Offices have access to all relevant reports required to fulfil their mandate under the PSC Protocol
- The Chairperson of the AU Commission and Chief Executives of the RECs/RMs meet at least once a year
- Evidence of institutionalised and systematic use of channels for information sharing at higher political level and technical level between the AU and the RECs/RMs
- Evidence of institutionalisation and use of common conflict analyses
- Examples of joint fact finding and/or monitoring missions between the AU and the RECs/RMs
- Evidence of common reports – RECs/RMs contributing to AUC and PSC reports to the AU Assembly of Heads of State and Government

The strategies adopted to address the causes of the problem and reach the objective are four-fold. First, dialogue sessions aiming at clarifying and agreeing on the concepts underlying the implementation of the MoU (subsidiarity, coordination) will be organized, a strategy document making the subsidiarity concept operational developed, and a strategy document drafted. It is expected that through these measures the concepts of subsidiarity, complementarity and comparative advantage (and/or partnership) are clearly defined and agreed upon.

Second, policies and standard operation procedures between the AUC and the RECs/RMs will be harmonized; a strategy document making the concept of coordination operational will be developed and a strategy document drafted; and the AU-RECs/RMs Task Force on strengthening the relations between the AUC and RECS/RMs in the area of peace and security will be institutionalized. As a result it is expected that the concept of coordination is clearly defined and agreed upon.

Third, through dialogue sessions between AU and RECs/RMs on the types of policies and standard operation procedures that need to be harmonised, in the end harmonized policies and standard operation procedures between the AU and the RECs/RMs will be put in place.

Fourth, a monitoring system will be developed; staff will be allocated to specific monitoring functions; common AU and RECs/RMs monitoring missions will be conducted (one per year in each REC/RM); and common AU and REC/RMs monitoring meetings will be held (one per year). It is expected that these steps will lead to the establishment of an adequate monitoring system for following-up on the MoU implementation.

5.4 The AU Liaison Offices

Liaison Offices play a fundamental role in the implementation of APSA. However, evaluations and consultations between stakeholders indicated that the relevance and efficiency of AU Liaison Offices established by the PSC and of AULOs within the RECs/RMs is rather limited. Analyses show that this problem is due to the following: the AU Liaison Offices/Field Missions mandate is not revised despite changes on the ground (there are no clear exit strategies for AULOs and unclear lines of communication and reporting); there are limited direct links between different Liaison Offices (AULOs/Field Missions and AULOs to the RECs/RMs and AU Regional Offices); and, AULOs suffer from limited (in numbers and relevance) technical capacities.

Specific objective 4 is therefore to ensure that the AU Liaison Offices are relevant and efficient.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 4 indicators

- Participation of AU Liaison Offices in all relevant statutory meetings of the AU and RECs/RMs
- Evidence of institutionalised and use of common conflict analyses
- Evidence of close involvement of AU Liaison Offices in the organisation of joint fact-finding and/or monitoring missions done by the AU, the RECs/RMs and/or partners
- Evidence of improved quality of monitoring of peace agreements, political situations on the ground, and implementation of PSC decisions on the ground

The strategies developed to address the causes of the problem and reach the objective are threefold. First, a series of analyses/evaluations of the relevance, efficiency and effectiveness of AULOs will be launched; the relevance, efficiency and effectiveness of AULOs will be evaluated; and guidelines for formulating relevant mandates for AULOs depending on changes in political/security situation on the ground will be developed. It is assumed that this leads to a regular review of AULO's mandates and reflection of the political/security situations on the ground.

Second, needs in terms of human resources specific to each Liaison Office (directly linked to the mandate of the AULO) will be analysed; clear guidelines for staff recruitment will be developed; and staff will be recruited. It is expected that through these measures AULO will be equipped with relevant staff (in adequacy with their respective mandate).

Third, a comprehensive monitoring system will be developed; staff will be allocated to specific monitoring functions; and common AU-RECs/RMs (and partners) results-monitoring meetings will be held. It is anticipated that these steps will bring about an adequate monitoring system for following-up on the performance of AULOs.

5.5 Policy and strategic dialogue within APSA partnerships

Since its creation, the relations with financial and technical partners of APSA are crucial to the success of its implementation. However, the analysis of the previous roadmap reveals the limited relevance and efficiency of partnership(s) between the AUC and its external partners. This problem is due to six main causes:

- Limited common understanding of the concept of partnership (what it means and entails);
- Limited common understanding of the concept of capacity building (what it means and entails);
- Lack of capacity at the AU level to monitor the extent to which it complies with the different decisions it has committed to implement;

- Disconnect (i.e. absence of clear strategic and results-based links) between the AU-partners dialogue at higher political level and its implementation at technical level;
- Lack of adequate coordination between partners;
- Lack of monitoring mechanisms allowing the AU and its partners to regularly assess the relevance, efficiency and effectiveness of their partnership.

Specific objective 5 is therefore to ensure that the policy and strategic dialogue within APSA partnerships are effective.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 5 indicators

- Evidence of institution-to-institution (AU-RECs/RMs-EU-UN) common policy dialogue
- Evidence of joint reports based on results
- Evidence of AU and RECs/RMs quality/results-based and timely financial and narrative reports to their partners
- No/limited evidence of conflicts/tensions between AU and partners

The strategies envisaged for addressing the causes of the problem are five-fold. First, dialogue sessions between AU and partners as well as between RECs/RMs and their partners on the content of the strategy document and on the most appropriate process leading to its conception will be organized; and a strategy document will be drafted. It is expected that, as a result, the AU and its partners as well as each REC/RM and their partners, share a common understanding of the concept of partnership. Second, dialogue sessions between AU and partners on the content of the strategy document and on the most appropriate process leading to its conception will be facilitated; and a strategy document drafted. The expected outcome will be that the AU and its partners as well as each REC/RM and their partners, share a common understanding of the concept of capacity building. Third, a monitoring system will be developed, staff will be allocated to specific monitoring functions, and common AU-partners results-monitoring meetings will be held (twice a year). This will lead to the establishment of an internal monitoring system that allows for following-up on the different decisions it has committed to implement. Fourth, strategic meetings between AU and partners gathering high level representatives and technical staff will be held to address the disconnect between different AU-partners dialogue levels. Fifth, dialogue meetings between AU and partners will be held and a harmonised programme support plan covering the roadmap timeframe will be developed with a view to the joint development of harmonised and aligned partnership tools between the AU and international partners.

5.6 Financial ownership of APSA

Despite several decisions by the AU Assembly of heads of State and Government and/or provisions made in the establishment of the PSC, APSA still suffers from the absence of financial ownership by the AUC and RECs/RMs, and from a high dependency on donors and international partners. This problem is due to two main reasons: the Member States' contribution to Peace Fund is low and the APSA has attracted very limited additional funding from alternative sources of finance.

Specific objective 6 is therefore to ensure that the financial ownership of APSA has increased and dependency on donors and international partners decreased substantially.

Priority 5 Specific Objective 6 indicators

- Evidence of increased revenues into the Peace Fund and similar regional funding mechanisms
- Evidence of increased AU operational budget from Member States
- Evidence of increased AU programme budget from Member States
- Evidence of increased AU PSO budget from Member States
- Evidence of increased funds emanating from private sector

The strategies envisaged for addressing the causes of the problem are two-fold. First, resource mobilization by Member States will be facilitated through the implementation of §8(5) of the PSC Protocol and the conclusions of the retreat of the PSC on working methods (5-7 July 2007) on the establishment of a Resource Mobilization Committee well as implementation of AU Assembly Dec. 578 (XXV) on targets for the new scale of assessment. As an effect, Article 21(4) of the PSC Protocol on the establishment of a Revolving Trust Fund with the Peace Fund will be made operational. Second, a detailed AU budget (including revised or amended versions) will be published as part of the AU Assembly documentation; a detailed annual activity plan of the programmes/projects to be funded from the Peace Fund will be developed; a robust annual review mechanism will be introduced; and an expert study on fundraising from private sector and resource-based extraction industries will be commissioned. It is expected that these steps will make AU Assembly Decision 561 (XXIV) on alternative sources of funding operational.

Cross-cutting issues

An important aspect of the roadmap consists of mainstreaming and addressing cross-cutting issues of gender, climate change, natural resource governance, human rights and youth. Gender, Peace and Security is at the core of APSA, which strives to strengthen women's participation in peace, security and post-conflict reconstruction in Africa and improve the quality and effectiveness of mechanisms and institutions in charge of addressing issues of protection of women and children in conflict and post-conflict contexts. The roadmap should be seen as a key contribution to mainstreaming gender issues into the continental peace and security agenda and ensuring women's increased participation and protection in time of conflict. This will be done through enhancing capacities of relevant African Institutions to integrate gender into the continental peace and security agenda, supporting RECs/RMs in implementing regional action plans on Resolution 1325 and other key resolutions and strengthening capacity to monitor national action plans as well as strengthening advocacy, partnership, research and dialogue on gender, peace and security.

The promotion and defence of human rights is also mainstreamed in the roadmap, as the AUC and the RECs/RMs attempt to enhance capacities and coordination of Member States, institutions and other stakeholders to address human rights concerns in Conflict Prevention, Management and Reduction. Similarly, the roadmap addresses the issues of continental coordination, collaboration and research to mitigate the impact of climate change as a threat to peace and security in Africa. Likewise, natural resource governance is of great concern, and the roadmap engages APSA stakeholders to build their capacity to prevent conflicts and/or relapse into violence through inclusive and sustainable management of natural resources. Finally, special attention should be given to the youth, the roadmap encouraging the AUC and the RECs/RMs to develop and implement sustainable youth empowerment policies that aim to educate and integrate the youth of the continent in peace and security. Migration and refugee issues relate to all strategic priorities of the APSA Roadmap. During the implementation of the Roadmap, efforts must be undertaken to address the relationship between displacement, migration and peace and security.

Monitoring and Evaluation

During the period covered by the previous roadmap, efforts have been put into monitoring programmes at the level of the AUC and RECs/RMs. However, despite indicators of improvement, the AUC and RECs/RMs have not yet reached their full potential to systematically report on results. As demonstrated in this document, the AUC, RECs/RMs have embarked on the development of the roadmap for the period 2016-2020 using a results-sensitive approach and commit to putting in place a comprehensive monitoring<sup>1</sup> system that will allow highlighting results throughout implementation.

The first phase of APSA implementation will be dedicated to developing a comprehensive monitoring system that aims to:

- Share monitoring roles and responsibilities among all stakeholders involved in APSA;
- Allow RECs/RMs review and document their contribution to the implementation of the Roadmap
- Allow the AUC and RECs/RMs to collect and analyse indicators that have been specified during the APSA planning phase, and to collect and analyse indicators that have not been specified but that are likely to be as important to qualify progress as the ones initially identified;
- Allow relevant and timely management responses at AUC, RECs/RMs and between AUC and RECs/RMs during the implementation APSA;
- Allow AUC and RECs/RMs to be at the forefront of the development of peace and security indicators at regional and continental levels;
- Allow the AUC and RECs/RMs to deepen its partnerships' dialogue using monitoring data and, thereby, enhance the relevance and effectiveness of APSA.

The monitoring system will be developed in order to collect and analyse data/indicators at activity, output, specific objective and strategic objective levels. This implies, beyond the establishment of clear monitoring responsibilities of all stakeholders involved in APSA, the need to enhance their monitoring skills. For this purpose, the first phase of development of the monitoring system will consist of an in-depth dialogue with all stakeholders on their expectations, on their current capacities and on the definition of mechanisms allowing for the monitoring to take place effectively. On the basis of this in-depth dialogue, a monitoring method and tool, as well as a capacity building plan, will be developed. Once approved, the monitoring system will be put into practice with technical support provided by the AUC. It is of utmost importance that the monitoring system integrates all the outputs, the specific and strategic objectives, as well as each cross-cutting issue, defined in the results frameworks in order to fine-tune and concretise progress indicators throughout the implementation of the roadmap.

The AUC, RECs/RMs also commit to regularly evaluate the implementation of APSA: an internal mid-term review is planned to take place during the first half of 2018 in order to assess the extent to which progress indicators are being achieved, and to formulate recommendations on how to possibly enhance the relevance, efficiency, effectiveness and sustainability of the implementation of the APSA roadmap.

<sup>1</sup> Monitoring is defined as “a continuing function that uses systematic collection of data on specified indicators to provide management and the main stakeholders of an intervention with information regarding the use of allocated funds, the extent of progress, the likely achievement of objectives and the obstacles that stand in the way of improved performance” (OECD, 2002)

Results Framework Strategic Priority 1: Conflict Prevention (including Early Warning and Preventive Diplomacy)

Strategic priority objective To contribute to effective, coordinated and timely direct and structural prevention of conflicts and crises by the AU and the RECs/RMs	Strategic Objective Indicators <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Evidence of enhanced capacity of CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs to individually and collaboratively monitor, collect and analyse data on the basis of tools and methodologies developed.</li> <li>● Conflict prevention interventions (direct and structural) are informed by systematic/joint early warning and analysis.</li> <li>● Direct conflict prevention interventions by AU/RECs/RMs (preventive diplomacy) are timely, coordinated and effective.</li> <li>● Evidence of structural prevention responses/interventions.</li> <li>● Evidence of APSA stakeholders cooperation in preventive actions.</li> <li>● Evidence of use of early warning reports by decision makers</li> </ul>	Sources of verification <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Minutes of CEWS/REC EWS meetings</li> <li>● CEWS/REC EWS planning documents (Log Frame, etc.)</li> <li>● Programme evaluations and assessments</li> <li>● Feedback from analysts and decision-makers</li> <li>● Samples of reports</li> </ul>	Assumptions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Full implementation of CEWS and the EWS at the RECs is achieved</li> <li>● AU and the RECs strengthen vertical and horizontal cooperation with regards to early warning</li> </ul>
Problem definition 1 Although well advanced with regards to the implementation of event data collection tools and data management and sharing tools, as well as the required ICT infrastructure and methodologies, full implementation of the AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs data collection and monitoring tools has not yet been fully achieved. With regards to analysis, AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs need to strengthen the quality, frequency and timeliness of early warning reports, situation updates, flash reports, weekly updates and other types of reports, including the strengthening of scenario-building and policy/response options contained therein. This is due to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Rapid changing nature of conflicts and their dynamics require a constant re-assessment of the adequacy of existing data collection tools;</li> <li>● Insufficient human resources;</li> <li>● Methodology Handbooks and SOPs not always followed;</li> <li>● Analysts not always relying on data generated by existing tools;</li> <li>● Limited frequency of early warning reports;</li> <li>● Inadequate feed-back from decision-makers on early warning reports;</li> <li>● Absence of structured interaction between CEWS/EWS-RECs and relevant staff from other departments (in the case of the AU CEWS these are Peace and Security Department staff such as desk officers/Panel of the Wise Secretariat and also Department of Political Affairs).</li> </ul>

Specific objective 1 Enhanced capacity of the AU CEWS and the EWS of the RECs/RMs to systematically monitor, collect and analyse relevant information in order to provide timely early warning reports, updates and other types of reports.	Specific objective 1 Indicators <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Existing data collection, analysis and methodology tools developed, tested, fully implemented and customised</li> <li>Evidence of improved quality of data gathered (widened variety, timeliness, relevance, verifiable)</li> <li>Evidence of trend tracking tools fully implemented (where applicable: Africa Reporter, CAAS, Democracy Trends Reports)</li> <li>Increased consistency in the production of early warning reports by CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs</li> <li>Increased frequency of production of early warning alerts by CEWS/EWS-RECs</li> <li>Evidence of data tools usage in the reports</li> <li>Reports following adopted methodologies</li> <li>Evidence of interaction with PSD/DPA/RECs staff in terms of peer reviews, joint writing of reports including situational and analysis reports</li> <li>Evidence of AU CEWS and EWS of the RECs/RMs use of AU DPA Election Risk Management Tools or similar tools at REC level</li> <li>Evidence of the RECs/RMs use of Election observation and Political Analysis Reports</li> <li>Percentage of African borders demarcated</li> <li>Number of African States having established National Border Commissions to manage their borders</li> </ul>	Sources of verification <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Minutes of CEWS/REC EWS meetings</li> <li>CEWS/REC EWS planning documents (Log Frame, etc)</li> <li>Programme evaluations and assessments</li> <li>Feedback from analysts and decision-makers</li> <li>Internal CEWS/REC EWS activity reports</li> <li>Samples of reports</li> <li>Chairperson's report to the PSC on the state of peace and security in Africa</li> <li>EWS of the RECs/RMs reports to their respective chief executives/assemblies</li> <li>DPA Political Analysis Reports</li> <li>Situation Room reports (CEWS and EWS)</li> </ul>	Assumptions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Implementation of data collection tools proceeds as planned (where appropriate);</li> <li>A system of feedback from decision makers is implemented</li> <li>Staff complement (analysts) is strengthened</li> <li>Coordination of each early warning unit oversees quality control of reporting, usage of tools and existing methodologies</li> <li>CEWS and EWS: Cooperation and trust is built among the implementing entities at Member States level to support data collection systems.</li> </ul>

Problem definition 5 While both the AU and the RECs/RMs acknowledges that conflict prevention must include both a direct/operational focus of intervening before large-scale violence occurs, as well as focus on the structural (root) causes of conflict, structural conflict prevention remains at an incipient stage. At Continental level, although structural conflict prevention is contained in numerous key policy documents (on human rights, governance, democratisation, the fight against corruption, disarmament, socio-economic development, management of natural resources among many others), it was not until recently that a specific framework on structural conflict prevention has been adopted. In order to strengthen its direct prevention actions with activities to assist Member States in addressing/identifying structural vulnerability of countries to conflict at an early stage, the Commission has elaborated a Continental Structural Conflict Prevention Framework and launched an Inter-departmental taskforce on conflict prevention. At the same time, the AUC has developed an African Governance Architecture (AGA) which addresses many of the dimensions of structural vulnerability, including good governance, the rule of law, democracy and human rights, popular participation, management of public funds, service delivery among others. Implementation of the CSCP is still at an incipient stage, a result of lack of resources (staff and financial), the need to mainstream conflict prevention (in its various dimensions) in the work of the AUC, among others. At the same time, linkages between APSA and AGA as well as the AU and the RECs in the domain of structural conflict prevention remain tenuous, partly a result of lack of communication and collaboration between different departments at AUC, and between the AU and the RECs.
